Pedophile Code Words in Podesta Emails Decoded

WikiLeaks: Discussion in 'USMB Op-Eds' started by Mrs. M., Saturday at 4:29 PM.

Brace yourselves. This is really bad. The Wikileaks Podesta emails have now been decoded. What you are about to learn will horrify you. After reading a story about Channel 4 awaiting a November 5th report could it be that this is the subject of the bombshell Assange was planning to drop?

The words in Podesta's emails are "code words" which once decoded reveal a very sickening picture of child sex rings and pedophiles. This is the link to Channel 4: /pol/ - Over the next few days many new documents will be - Politically Incorrect - 4chan According to at least two news reports, it was channel 4 bloggers who identified the code words as words used by child sex ring participants.

This is an updated breaking report from a writer for Silver Doctors called, 'The Doc'

"Would love to get a pizza for an hour?"
 Re: You two free for dinner on 12 or 13 January? - WikiLeaks
 Podesta 29 and 30 dumps were filled with strangely worded emails with references to cheese, pizza, ice cream, and hot dog stands.

Some Podesta emails seem really strange until one recognizes these code words common to child sex rings and pedophiles:

- AoA —> age of attraction
- AoC —> age of consent
- Amber alerts —> used to track down escaped child sex slaves
- BL —> boy lover (attracted to boys)
- BM —> boy moment (time spent with a boy; could be a passing glance or a length encounter)
- cheese —> little girl
- cheese pizza —> child pornography
- CL —> child lover (pedophile)
- domino(s) —> domination
- CP —> child pornography
- GL —> girl lover (attracted to girls)

- Hillary Clinton and Podesta
- GM —> girl moment (same as boy moment)
 - hot dog —> boy
 - ice cream —> make prostitute
 - LB —> little boy
 - LG —> little girl
 - MAC —> minor attracted adult
 - map —> semen
 - nuts —> person of color
 - parents —> law enforcement
 - pasta —> little boy
 - pizza —> girl
 - playing cards —> threesome sex act
 - sauce —> orgy
 - spirit cooking —> See the YouTube video at <http://www.dangerandplay.com/2016/11/03/podesta-emails-reveal-clintons-i...>
 - walnut —> person of color
 - YF —> young friend (referring to a victim)

Pedophile symbology.

Decode them using the above translation matrix. See what you think.

<http://www.silverdoctors.com/headlines/world-news/wikileaks-bombshell-reveals->

The code words in John Podesta's emails are not talking about pizza. They are talking about little girls! Who says, "Would love to come over and get a pizza for an hour?" This is code language that has been decoded thanks to Wikileaks and Channel 4. There is more to come. Check out this email alerting John Podesta that the realtor found a "handkerchief."

"Did you leave a handkerchief"

Hi John, The realtor found a handkerchief (I think it has a map that seems pizza-related. Is it yours? They can send it if you want. I know you're busy, so feel free not to respond if it's not yours or you don't want it.

So using the pedo terminology/slang above, Podesta is apparently warned that a realtor found a handkerchief with semen on it that seems young girl related.

Why might someone be so concerned about getting a lost handkerchief back? DNA evidence linking oneself to a pedo crime certainly makes sense.

Combine this with an email in this morning's #Podesta31 dump titled

Re: You two free for dinner on 12 or 13 January? (a seemingly SMOKING GUN reference to "pizza" is sent) >> Mary not free >> Would love to get a pizza for an hour? Or come over

Re: You two free for dinner on 12 or 13 January? - WikiLeaks

No one refers to literal food (of the Papa Johns variety) as getting a pizza for an hour.

Did Hillary Clinton's campaign manager's Satanic brother Tony email Podesta that he would love to come over and get a young girl for an hour?

After reading these emails with the code words what didn't make sense before suddenly does. According to Channel 4 someone announced that there would be many new documents released with the biggest announcement coming on November 5th (the day this was written).

Posted on Channel 4 website

Over the next few days many new documents will be released. The contents of these documents will contain evidence of perhaps the largest cover-up in American History. Before this happens we would like to explain ourselves and answer a few questions you may have.

Until this month, WikiLeaks and

1 Timothy 2:1-2 KJV
 I exhort therefore, that, first of all, supplications, prayers, intercessions, and giving of thanks, be made for all men; For kings, and for all that are in authority; that we may lead a quiet and peaceable life in all godliness and honesty.

Anonymous have worked together in building an efficient, detailed, comprehensive set of documents that may be responsible for the incarceration of Hillary Clinton, Bill Clinton, and 21 individuals ranging from the DNC, FBI, CIA, and Clinton foundation. These documents will show without a doubt, evidence of Treason, Obstruction of Justice, Election Fraud/Manipulation, and Bribery.

This was intended to be the October surprise. But before the release of these documents, we were contacted by a member of the FBI, as well as another from the CIA, and a week later by the NYPD. All with information pertaining to something much darker than even we imagined.

Due to the nature of these leaks, we all worked together as efficiently as possible to ensure two objectives.

1.) That all necessary information would be given to the public in an organized, searchable, manageable way.

2.) Those who provided us with this information would be able to find safety before these releases were made. (This concern wasn't without warrant). /pol/ - Over the next few days many new documents will be - Politically Incorrect - 4chan

In yet another announcement there was information released about what the scandal was about.

Channel 4 website:
 The new leaks being released this week will provide documents in the form of emails, pictures, and videos. Within these will be evidence of Bill Clinton, as well as at least 6 other Government officials, taking part in sexual acts with minors. As well as evidence of Human trafficking that also included minors.

We believe these pictures and videos were taken for the purpose of political manipulation. In order to make sure all participants followed through on a previously agreed agenda.

These documents were given to us by an American Government official when he had come to learn that this crime had been covered up by Hilary and her staff through methods including bribery and blackmail. He also told us that due to the restricted access to these documents, they would soon know he was the one who released them to us.

We tried to make arrangements for him to exit the country safely, but he was killed before those arrangements could be carried out. We are still not sure if this is because they became aware of the leak, or if they were scared that he may leak them in the future. In either case, his identity will be made public in this next set of leaks so that he can be honored for the hero that he was.

We will not only be releasing these documents, but we have multiple members of the FBI, CIA, and NYPD who will be publically verifying their authenticity once their safety is assured.

This hack has not come from Russia or anyone else they may try to blame this on. This is a leak from Americas own Government Officials who fear for their safety had the opposed them directly due to reasons that will be made clear soon.

We thank you for your patience, as well as your determination and assistance in helping us expose the corruption that has infested our own government. Democracy will be restored to America.

It is yet to be confirmed as to whether or not the videos and pictures mentioned exist or will be revealed to the public. The writer claims that they are working with authorities. As news of this decoding of Podesta's emails is now coming out, we can only imagine what the FBI already have in their possession which has not been released yet to the public.

Why are these people writing so many emails about pizza?

"John -- Hosting pizza party at Belmont for HFA on April 10.

Maya Harris is joining, but need you.

Can you come?

Thanks much, Tony"

<https://wikileaks.org/podesta-emails/emailid/42458>

"In 2012 Harris was Vice President for Democracy, Rights and Justice at the Ford Foundation. One of the issues she addresses through her position is the problem of child brides. Harris grew up in the San Francisco Bay Area. When she was eight, she and her sister worked to get the apartment building they lived in to open an unused courtyard as a place for children to play."

Maya Harris's sister is Kamala Harris.

"As a deputy district attorney in Alameda County, Kamala Harris specialized in child sexual assault cases, a focus she carried into her two terms as the elected district attorney of San Francisco. Her younger sister, Maya Harris West, was the executive director of the American Civil Liberties Union of Northern California and is now a vice president at the Ford Foundation. "

<https://www.bloomberg.com/news/articles/2013-11-27/kamala-harris-bruises-banks-burnishes-image-with-mortgage-deals>

Now, this is likely nothing. Turns out this pizza party was advertised online and was going to be held at John Podestas home. Unlikely he's referring to any illicit when its publicly advertised right? Are we back to normality?

The weird thing though is that the pizza chef is a guy who was blackmailed of 850G's on the threat of releasing "de rogatory" information about him.

<http://www.foxnews.com/politics/2012/02/27/media-matters-boss-paid-former-partner-850g-blackmail-settlement.html>

But it gets weirder.

He talks about cooking in strange ways. But sometimes when he says cooking, we know he means either things. Take "Spirit Cooking". This is something he seems to enjoy with his friends.

She's looking forward to do doing this with Podestas and maybe his brother.

"Dear Tony, I am so looking forward to the Spirit Cooking dinner at my place. Do you think you will be able to let me know if your brother is joining? All my love, Marina"

Warning its weird.

<https://wikileaks.org/podesta-emails/emailid/15893>

Thats not all.

There is another email here about pizza.

It is in regards to a jpg picture in the attachment.

"re: pizza.jpg"

"Nice"

"As John said, it doesn't get any better than this"

<https://wikileaks.org/podesta-emails/emailid/10037>

WTF?

So the picture is of pizza AND a child (and two women). This gets us nowhere? Or somewhere?

So who are the two women in the picture of the little girl, with the pizza?

They were Laura Ling and Euna Lee who were arrested in North Korea while reporting on sex trafficking. They were freed and must have taken this picture. But how come the second we get away from sex trafficking we are right back to it?

This links the phrase "pizza" with child sex trafficking through their own emails.

That pizza party image is cc'd to both Huma Abedin, and Zach Schwartz of Shangri-La Entertainment. Shangri-La Entertainment is owned by Steve Bing, major Democratic party donor, friend of both Bill Clinton and the famous Hollywood madam and procurer of sex, Heidi Fleiss.

Who went to go pick these women up during their report on sex trafficking? Bill Clinton and Steve Bing.

"On August 5, 2009, a 737 private aircraft owned by Stephen Bing and based out of hangar 25 at the Burbank airport in Southern California, was utilized in the return of American reporters Laura Ling and Euna Lee who had spent 5 months of a 12-year sentence in North Korea.[7] Former President Bill Clinton was instrumental in their return, and accompanied the reporters back to the U.S. Bing reportedly covered the cost of the entire flight, estimated to be around $200,000.[8]"

<http://www.thedailybeast.com/articles/2010/03/30/steve-bing-takes-a-hit.html>

Now why did Bill Clinton make it such a high priority for him to go to North Korea personally to get these women back? Or rather, what did the North Koreans have on Bill that made him jump to their command?

Lets keep looking.

<https://wikileaks.org/podesta-emails/emailid/8673>

How about this pizza chat:

"Mary not free

Would love to get a pizza for an hour?

Or come over

Tony Podesta"

So Mary isn't around, and he's hungry?

And he wants to get a pizza for an hour?

I've gone for pizza in an hour, I've never had a pizza for an hour. Could be reaching, who knows.

<https://wikileaks.org/podesta-emails/emailid/33096>

Pizza for and hour, and then this.

"If you will be around for dinner or pizza on Sunday"

Dinner or pizza? Pizza is dinner, but maybe not to the elites. Odd, maybe nothing.

<https://wikileaks.org/podesta-emails/emailid/22033>

But does Nancy Pelosi have a pizza place as front company? It seems she may. Do these people need excuses to discuss pizza, or is there a more legitimate purpose?

<http://magafeed.com/guccifer-2-0-nancy-pelosis-goat-hill-pizza-may-be-a-front-company/>

What is this front company doing donating so much to the Clinton Foundation? A tech company fronting for an adult video store that makes frequent 1500 dollar donations.

<https://i.redd.it/83vazn7igjpx.jpg>

These guys treat pizza like its very important. See this message about this pizza related handkerchief that was left behind.

This is one of the oddest parts. If this isn't code, what is it?

"Hi John, The realtor found a handkerchief (I think it has a map that seems pizza-related. Is it yours? They can send it if you want. I know you're busy, so feel free not to respond if it's not yours or you don't want it. Susanna"

"I just came from checking the Field house and I have a square cloth handkerchief (white w/ black). I also meant to inquire yesterday about the pillows you purchased. I can send them as well, if you let me know where they are in the house."

<https://wikileaks.org/podesta-emails/emailid/32795>

Handkerchiefs are used as a BDSM sex code. His handkerchief is pizza related. White usually seems to mean kissing/handjob, the black may mean something else to them. But she says the color, and says its a pizza related handkerchief.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Handkerchief_code

<https://user.xmission.com/~trevin/hanky.html>

"Pillows" is slang for ordering a prostitute at a luxury hotel.

<http://www.thesundaytimes.co.uk/sto/travel/article83887.ece>

That message about pizza and pillows is from someone at the Sandler Foundation.

The Sandler Foundation pays John Podesta 7,000$ a month.

<http://www.politico.com/story/2016/11/john-podesta-donor-foundation-230571>

I don't even know what to think of this one, also from the Sandler Foundation. My god. I know John Podesta does cook but what are we supposed to think about this? Playing dominos on cheese? WTF?? (sorry for the language)

"John.

I think you should give notice when changing strategies which have been long in place. I immediately realized something was different by the shape of the box and I contemplated who would be sending me something in the square shaped box. Lo and behold, instead of pasta and wonderful sauces, it was a lovely, tempting assortment of cheeses, Yummy. I am awaiting the return of my children and grandchildren from their holiday travels so that we can demolish them.

Herb.

Ps. Do you think I'll do better playing dominos on cheese than on pasta?"

<https://wikileaks.org/podesta-emails/emailid/30613>

Ive been trying so hard not to believe this. Im not a journalist or anything so I don't know where I might have missed something, if I got anything clearly wrong please let me know so I can correct it or delete it.

Editor's Comment: This is so shocking that it is almost unbelievable; however, unless Wikileaks is somehow found guilty of misleading the citizens of the USA, one is compelled to believe the above report to be true. This newspaper has published only what was in the Wikileaks emails.

Thousands of Scientists Now Call Global Warming Crisis a Fraud

Conservative Force
updates@conservativeforce.com

September 5, 2016

As we head into the 2016 presidential election, global warming alarmists continue to argue that government must “do something” about climate change, even if we aren’t sure that there is anything we can do about it except spend billions of tax dollars on pie-in-the sky ideas to solve imaginary problems.

Despite the fact that the climate has been changing throughout the earth’s history, these control freaks fantasize about controlling that change by forcing others to live in poverty to fund their proposed “solutions.”

This is in spite of the fact that no one is really sure what to do or if anything even needs to be done.

According to a story in Natural News,

Weather Channel founder John Coleman ... is now warning that the election could prove to be a “tipping point” in favor of people like Al Gore, who continue to amass vast fortunes based on the global warming scam.

In a recent interview with Climate Depot, Coleman said:

“Al Gore may emerge from the shadows to declare victory in the ‘global warming’ debate if Hillary Clinton moves into the White House. Yes, if that happens and the new climate regulations become the law of the land, they will be next to impossible to overturn for four to eight years.”

Climate change proponents remain undeterred in their mission, ignoring numerous recent scientific findings indicating that there has been no warming trend at all for nearly two decades.

Al Gore’s dire predictions of the melting of polar ice on a massive scale have proved to be completely false. In fact, in 2014 – a year that was touted as being “the hottest ever” in the Earth’s history – there were record amounts of ice reported in Antarctica, an increase in Arctic ice, and record snowfalls across the globe.

On top of those “inconvenient truths,” the White House’s assertion that 97 percent of scientists agree that global warming is real has been completely debunked. Several independently-researched examinations of the literature used to support the “97 percent” statement found that the conclusions were cherry-picked and misleading.

More objective surveys have revealed that there is a far greater diversity of opinion among scientists than the global warming crowd would like for you to believe.

From the National Review:

“A 2008 survey by two German scientists, Dennis Bray and Hans von Storch, found that a significant number of scientists were skeptical of the ability of existing global climate models to accurately predict global temperatures, precipitation, sea-level changes, or extreme weather events even over a decade; they were far more skeptical as the time horizon increased.”

Other mainstream news sources besides the National Review have also been courageous enough to speak out against the global warming propaganda – even the Wall Street Journal published an op-ed piece in 2015 challenging the Anthropogenic Global Warming (AGW) pseudoscience being promulgated by global warming proponents.

And, of course, there are the more than 31,000 American scientists (to date) who have signed a petition challenging the climate change narrative and 9,029 of them hold PhDs in their respective fields. But hey, Al Gore and his cronies have also ignored that inconvenient truth, as well.

What do you think, readers? Are you ready to start paying for Al Gore and his pals’ plans for funding ways to try to control the earth’s climate to exactly the correct temperature that they think is perfect? Do they have a clue?

TENS OF THOUSANDS OF SCIENTISTS DECLARE CLIMATE CHANGE A HOAX

A staggering 30,000 scientists have come forward declaring that climate change is a hoax perpetuated by the establishment elite for the purposes of making vast amounts of money!

Let’s Get Cookin’

About 4 years ago my personal circumstances dictated that I learn to cook; that is to say cook better than I did at the time. I knew two recipes. One was for Mac & Cheese ...the other one wasn’t.

Instead of learning to cook right away I let the community do it for me. Thanks to the good graces of Long John Silver’s, Taco Bell, and all the other assorted fast food places in town I was able to get by.

I must also thank a friend of mine, Rob, for not letting me go without a home cooked meal for a number of weeks. Rob is definitely a gourmet cook. He use to prepare meals for several famous people like Andy Griffith back in the day. He really knows how to use a skillet.

I had to learn to cook. Thank goodness for the internet or I would still be filling up on Mac & Cheese with a side of peanut butter and jelly sandwich. Yep...I was reliving my early school years.

I learned how to cook a number of things. I started out simple with things like spaghetti and baked potatoes, then I moved on to more difficult things like pork steaks, hamburgers, pizza. My skills increased and I was able to cook a few more complicated things like a ham and eventually even an entire smoked turkey.

One day my son brought home some smoked brisket and a few ribs that were unbelievable. I found out who made them and how they did it.

Primarily, they used a smoker. Well I just had to have one so I went shopping. After about 3 hours of looking around, flipping coins and $400 later I finally had my smoker.

It was not an easy decision to make. I went home, and unlike most men (I will admit) I meticulously read the instructions. I started out with simple smoking projects. You can get a pork tenderloin already brined and seasoned at the grocery store for around $8. Then I moved on to a few pork products, steaks and chops.

My crowning achievement was last year when I smoked that turkey for thanksgiving. It was awesome and I was probably just a little bit too proud of myself, at least more than I should have.

The best compliments I ever receive regarding my culinary skills always come from my 14 year old boy, the one who thinks it is Christmas every time he opens a box of chicken nuggets. When I prepare a meal, he asks for seconds and enthusiastically declares that I have outdone myself; well, that just makes my day.

My mother’s cooking made me popular with a few of my peers during my high school years. After inviting a few friends over for mom’s fried chicken and peanut butter pie my friends cried that it was the best they had ever eaten. This was followed by pleas not to inform their own mothers.

I posted on Facebook a picture of mom’s peanut butter pie sometime back and the response from those old friends was quite complimentary. Mom was and is a great cook. So was her mother. Their cooking methods were always appetizing.

I once visited an elderly lady in the Ozark hills of Missouri. While scrambling some eggs with a spatula, she paused to kill a fly on the wall with that same spatula. The fly dropped to the floor and she returned to scrambling the eggs with said spatula.

I did not eat breakfast that day. I don’t recall how I graciously got out of it but I know that I did. I will say that not every cook in the south has such poor manners when it comes to preparing meals, yet I am reminded of a quote from a man who sold a popular Bar-B-Q from a roadside stand in the deep southeast, “Everyone knows you can’t make a good Bar-B-Q and still follow the health code!” I’m sure that he said this in jest. I hope he did anyway.

I do love good cooking and particular good southern cooking. When it comes to fish, the best catfish you can get comes from the southeast. The closer you are to the Mississippi delta the better the fish will be. And corn bread. Don’t get me started. There is nothing better than cornbread with some real genuine butter and farm fresh, at that, if you can get it.

The best thing about preparing a meal for the ones you love is consuming it with the ones you love and making some great memories at the same time.

I remember so many fun and good times sitting at Grandma’s table with the cousins digging in to her chicken & dumplings, her home made slaw, her Thanksgiving turkeys or her Christmas hams. So many pictures of these events are slid behind the cellophane of dozens of albums that my mother inherited.

As the holiday months are soon approaching I would encourage you all to fire up the grills, the smokers, the ovens, and the stove tops. Make something good and share it with the ones you love! Make some memories

Warren Buffett

Now that the crazy election and disgusting campaign is over here are some things I think we all agree on -

Warren Buffett is asking everyone to forward this email to a minimum of 20 people, and to ask each of those to do likewise. In this way, most people in the United States will have the message within 3 days.

The BUFFETT Rule

Did you know??????

Salary of retired US Presidents $180,000 FOR LIFE.

Salary of House/Senate members $174,000 FOR LIFE. This is stupid

Salary of Speaker of the House $223,500 FOR LIFE. This is really stupid

Salary of Majority / Minority Leaders $193,400 FOR LIFE. Stupid

Average Salary of a teacher $40,065

Average Salary of a deployed Soldier $38,000

Here's where the cuts should be made!

Warren Buffett, in a recent interview with CNBC.. "I could end the deficit in five minutes," he told CNBC. "You just pass a law that says that anytime there is a deficit of more than 3% of GDP, all sitting members of Congress are ineligible for re-election".

The 26th Amendment (granting the right to vote for 18 year-olds) took only three months and eight days to be ratified! Why? Simple! The people demanded it. That was in 1971 - before computers, e-mail, cell phones, etc.

Of the 27 amendments to the Constitution, seven (7) took one (1) year or less to become the law of the land - all because of public pressure.

Congressional Reform Act of 2017

1. No Tenure / No Pension. A Congressman / woman collects a salary while in office and receives no pay when they're out of office.
2. Congress (past, present, & future) participates in Social Security.
3. All funds in the Congressional retirement fund move to the Social Security system immediately. All future funds flow into the Social Security system, and Congress participates with the American people. It may not be used for any other purpose
4. Congress can purchase their own retirement plan, just as all Americans do.
5. Congress will no longer vote themselves a pay raise. Congressional pay will rise by the lower of CPI or 3%.
6. Congress loses their current health care system and participates in the same health care system as the American people.
7. Congress must equally abide by all laws they impose on the American people.
8. All contracts with past and present Congressmen/ women are void effective 3/1/17. The American people did not make this contract with Congressmen/women.
9. Congress made all these contracts for themselves. Serving in Congress is an honor, not a career. The Founding Fathers envisioned citizen legislators, so ours should serve their term(s), then go home and go back to work.

If each person contacts a minimum of twenty people, it will only take three days for most people in the U.S. to receive the message. It's time!

THIS IS HOW YOU FIX CONGRESS!

"To help people better understand this disease, we've prepared a list of Frequently Asked Questions about AMD."

Q: What is AMD?

A: AMD stands for Age-related Macular Degeneration, a disease that breaks down the macula - the light-sensitive portion of the retina that allows you to see fine detail. It blurs the straight-ahead vision required for activities such as reading or driving

Q: What causes AMD?

A: The causes of AMD are still unknown. One form of AMD (Dry) may be caused by aging and thinning of the macular tissues, pigment deposits in the macula, or a combination of the two. The other form of AMD (Wet), results when new blood vessels grow beneath the retina and leak blood and fluid. This leakage causes retinal cells to die and creates blind spots in central vision.

Q: Who is at risk for AMD?

A: Risk factors for AMD include: Smoking, High Blood Pressure, Obesity, and Family History of AMD. Also, Caucasians and females are more prone to AMD.

Q: What are the symptoms of AMD?

A: Early symptoms of AMD included blurred vision or dark spots in the center of vision. The symptoms can appear painlessly and gradually, making early detection and treatment essential.

Q: How can AMD be detected?

A: Early-stage AMD can be detected through a comprehensive eye exam that includes a visual acuity test and dilated eye exam. If AMD is detected, further tests may be required.

Q: Can AMD be cured?

A: There is no cure or AMD at this time. There are, however, certain treatments that can slow or minimize vision loss, and, in some cases, even improve vision.

Q: How is AMD treated?

A: There are several treatment options that your eye doctor may consider, including:

- * Vitamins. Research suggests that certain vitamin supplements taken in combination may reduce vision loss in some stages of AMD
- * Laser Surgery (Wet AMD)
- * Injections (Wet AMD)

"While there is no cure for AMD, early detection and treatment can slow or minimize vision loss, and, in some cases even improve vision." Dr. Marquardt said. "There are also devices that can help people suffering from AMD-related vision loss achieve improvement in their functional vision for performing daily routines."

TRUE?

It Fits The Times, So Who Knows?

Contributed by Jan Brown and Debra A. Lovelace

The flood of Trump-fearing American liberals sneaking across the border into Canada has intensified in the past week. The Republican presidential campaign is prompting an exodus among left-leaning Americans who fear they'll soon be required to hunt, pray, pay taxes, and live according to the Constitution.

Canadian border residents say it's not uncommon to see dozens of sociology professors, global-warming activists, and "green" energy proponents crossing their fields at night.

"I went out to milk the cows the other day, and there was a Hollywood producer huddled in the barn," said southern Manitoba farmer Red Greenfield, whose acreage borders North Dakota. "He was cold, exhausted and hungry, and begged me for a latte and some free-range chicken.

When I said I didn't have any, he left before I even had a chance to show him my screenplay."

In an effort to stop the illegal aliens, Greenfield erected higher fences, but the liberals scaled them. He then installed loudspeakers that blared Rush Limbaugh across the fields, but they just stuck their fingers in their ears and kept coming.

Officials are particularly concerned about smugglers who meet liberals just south of the border, pack them into electric cars, and drive them across the border, where they are simply left to fend for themselves after the battery dies. "

"A lot of these people are not prepared for our rugged conditions," an Alberta border patrolman said. "I found one carload without a single bottle of Perrier water, or any gemelli with shrimp and arugula. All they had was a nice little Napa Valley cabernet and some kale chips."

When liberals are caught, they're sent back across the border, often wailing that they fear persecution from Trump high-hairers.

Rumors are circulating about plans being made to build re-education camps where liberals will be forced to drink Budweiser beer, study the Constitution, and find jobs that actually contribute to the economy.

In recent days, liberals have turned to ingenious ways of crossing the border. Some have been disguised as senior citizens taking a bus trip to buy cheap Canadian prescription drugs.

After catching a half-dozen young vegans in blue-hair wig disguises, Canadian immigration authorities began stopping buses and quizzing the supposed senior citizens about Perry Como and Rosemary Clooney to prove that they were alive in the '50s.

"If they can't identify the accordion player on The Lawrence Welk Show, we become very suspicious about their age," an official said.

Canadian citizens have complained that the illegal immigrants are creating an organic-broccoli shortage, are buying up all the Barbara Streisand CD's, and are overloading the internet while downloading jazzercise apps to their cell phones.

"I really feel sorry for American liberals, but the Canadian economy just can't support them," an Ottawa resident said. "After all, how many art-history majors does one country need?"

Former Leader Of The Tea Party

THE PERFECT SOCIALIST?

Politicians for hundreds of years felt they had the real answer to the down-trodden of the world against the wealthy. The common thread of all the schemes is some form of socialism, and the way to accomplish this is total control of the populace.

They all had some method of money management or directing that eventually failed. Each time such a leader emerged, they had a novel approach to present to some leaders of the country and finally to the public.

All those regimes proved to be corrupt even if they appear to genuinely improve lives for the lowest members for a time. This group will be their base for the future and can be relied on for support. When each socialist government was found wanting and faded, the next aspirant modified the rhetoric and their followers proclaimed them different, who have their finger on the issues, problems, etc. This pattern has played out over and over.

Eight years ago our nation was treated to the same orchestrated case for Barak Obama and this time he was touted as the ultimate expert on all subjects related to governing.

I recall how Obama corrected politicians and media on the correct pronunciation of Pakistan. He had been there for some reason, and his stories about Pakistan, Hawaii and Indonesia, right or wrong, was the reason many of them proclaimed him the automatic know-it-all about the world and what to do with or about it. It seems no matter the subject, he had a great number of backers who were eager to fill our ears with stories of his great potential and background. From ABC News, George Stephanopoulos; "We have not seen this kind of combination of star power and brain power and political muscle this early in a cabinet in our lifetimes. He's managed his transition with the same kind of precision and discipline that he managed to show during the campaign...It's hard to imagine this transition going much better for the president elect."

However Michelle Malkin wrote a narrative of incompetence, nepotism and influence-peddling that defies the stubborn myth that Obama is the One True Agent of Hope and Change. The following were Obama's choices for top cabinet posts that didn't pass the smell test. Before his first 100 days the following were thrown under the bus; Bill Richardson (corruption scandal), Tom Daschle (taxes, ethics) Nancy Killefer (taxes) Annette Nazareth (allegations of incompetence) Caroline Atkinson (taxes) H. Rodgin Cohen (conflicts of interest) Frank Brosens ("personal" reasons) Scott Polakoff (allegations of fraud) Jon Cannon (ties to embezzlement scam) Charles Freeman (foreign govt. cronyism). Tim Geithner was mentored by powerful Wall Street brokers and many thought he was a winner before it was found he hadn't paid back taxes on illegal immigrant household help and his acceptance of reimbursement for taxes he didn't pay and he approved the AIG bonuses his boss said were shameful and outrageous.

Obama pledged that before bills were passed they would be available for the public to view on line. He broke that pledge many times, the most egregious being the mad rush to pass the trillion-dollar, pork stuffed stimulus package full of earmarks that he denied. This money would start up many shovel-ready jobs but in reality went to states friendly to his campaign that were underwater due to underfunded public union pensions and were in danger of economic failure, and green energy companies, like Solyndra; all wasted money. Years later he admitted that the jobs weren't as shovel ready as they had thought. No one ever got on his case for putting the nation severely in debt for the wrong reasons.

His utter disregard for accountability prompted hundreds of thousands of citizens to take to the streets on tax day 2009 for tea party protests, and many of their signs read, "READ THE BILL FIRST." The display of legislation before passage was rhetoric only. The proof is in his great number of executive orders that made 'czar' appointments creating a shadow cabinet of secretaries that oversee all aspects of domestic policy with unchecked powers. These are actually beyond all congressional reach or citizen input and many of the czars were appointed to oversee industries they had financial ties to.

Obama told us that lobbyist's days of setting the agenda in Washington were over because he had done more than any other candidate to take on the lobbyists and had won. However in the first month of his administration he had made 17 exceptions to his no-lobbyist rule. National Journal reported the White House invoked a clause allowing the Office of Management and Budget director to waive restrictions to allow former Raytheon lobbyist William Lynn to become deputy Defense secretary. Soon after, the WH issued more waivers, allowing more questionable appointments.

Then we were force fed the disaster of Obamacare. His entire administration is filled with moves and statements that prove his lack of qualifications. Obama's only qualification; he's a historic choice. To the Democratic Party that trumps other considerations and everyone is afraid to oppose him because he's our first black president. Period. The media will hammer all who dare to do so. The race issue is the prime issue for Obama and Hillary.

In fact his leadership is on a parallel with Hugo Chavez of Venezuela whose communist ideology took his country from a strong economic position in the world (with large oil reserves), to a nation with long lines at stores, shortages of basic goods and despair among the working class who see no end to their plight. Venezuela has reached the point of all socialist governments but few leaders will even admit to being socialists the way Hugo Chavez and Castro did. If we review the countries who have pursued socialism we find they never recover.

Obama won't acknowledge his failures and uses word wizards to fudge figures and words. For Obama and Hillary everything about Benghazi was a massive lie and she'll continue his destructive path to "Venezuela" for the U.S. - Don Omey

Q: I am a single mom, with a 13 year old boy. My son is ADHD, ODD, IED and ASD (autistic spectrum).

We have been having services for 6 years now and things have gotten 100 times more horrible within the last year. We have had a behavior specialist, a mobile therapist and a therapeutic therapist for the last 6 years.

My son made very little progress. He is intelligent and athletic but he has NO respect for me or any authority figures.

Now it has gotten worse, he gets physical with me, very aggressive and breaks stuff in the house, but of course not his stuff. He even got physical with his therapist.

He tried leaving the house one time during session and we blocked the entrance so he went upstairs to try to jump out the window but I talked him out of it.

He also grabbed a knife and I took it from him. He continues to get physical and is now throwing stuff at me and trying to trip me so that I would fall...

Needless to say, I've been doing a lot of praying. Next week we are starting a new service which, again, is at the house but with two therapists and for 8 months. I don't think my son will cooperate, but this is the next step before he gets placed out of home, which is what I am trying to avoid.

Now the defiance and disrespect is also starting in school and increasing. I am at a loss and at the end of my rope, but I am afraid of losing him to the system, or any facility placement because I have heard the horror stories, with other kids and abuse from the workers. I need help. I don't know what to do. Also he is currently on Strattera and Abilify. Help!

A: Here's my test for placing a child outside the home. If you continue on the same path you're on for the next 6 months, will you be better at the end of that time, or worse? If it's worse, it's time to place him in a facility.

You're dealing with a deck that has been stacked against you with some pretty major cards. Get the help he needs, and whatever he needs... not what he wants, so that you can help and not allow the situation to get even worse.

KIDNEY STONES

Definition

By Mayo Clinic Staff

Kidney stones (renal lithiasis, nephrolithiasis) are small, hard mineral deposits that form inside your kidneys. The stones are made of mineral and acid salts.

Kidney stones have many causes and can affect any part of your urinary tract — from your kidneys to your bladder. Often, stones form when the urine becomes concentrated, allowing minerals to crystallize and stick together.

Passing kidney stones can be quite painful, but the stones usually cause no permanent damage. Depending on your situation, you may need nothing more than to take pain medication and drink lots of water to pass a kidney stone. In other instances — for example, if stones become lodged in the urinary tract or cause complications — surgery may be needed.

Your doctor may recommend preventive treatment to reduce your risk of recurrent kidney stones if you're at increased risk of developing them again.

Symptoms

By Mayo Clinic Staff

A kidney stone may not cause symptoms until it moves around within your kidney or passes into your ureter — the tube connecting the kidney and bladder. At that point, you may experience these signs and symptoms:

Showing no limits in the water

Olympic Swimmer
Alyssia Crook

Alyssia Crook says the water is the one place she feels completely free. She first tried swimming as part of her physical therapy after having her left leg amputated when she was 13 years old. Now, five years later, Alyssia is competing with the fastest swimmers in the world.

Alyssia has a long-term goal of bringing home a medal in the 2020 games in Tokyo, Japan. Beyond that, she would like to help kids with physical disabilities through swimming and rehabilitation, showing them how to find strength in the water as she has.

Alyssia has a rare congenital condition called popliteal pterygium syndrome, which is characterized by a knot of nerves, arteries and veins concentrated in her legs. As Alyssia's legs grew, the bundle did not, causing sharp pain, inhibiting growth and compromising circulation.

In 2003, 5-year-old Alyssia was living in a Ukrainian orphanage, where Chad and Karen Crook first met her. The couple immediately adopted her

- Severe pain in the side and back, below the ribs
- Pain that spreads to the lower abdomen and groin
- Pain that comes in waves and fluctuates in intensity
- Pain on urination
- Pink, red or brown urine
- Cloudy or foul-smelling urine
- Nausea and vomiting
- Persistent need to urinate
- Urinating more often than usual
- Fever and chills if an infection is present
- Urinating small amounts of urine

Pain caused by a kidney stone may change — for instance, shifting to a different location or increasing in intensity — as the stone moves through your urinary tract.

When to see a doctor

Make an appointment with your doctor if you have any signs and symptoms that worry you.

Seek immediate medical attention if you experience:

- Pain so severe that you can't sit still or find a comfortable position
- Pain accompanied by nausea and vomiting
- Pain accompanied by fever and chills
- Blood in your urine
- Difficulty passing urine

and flew her back to Western Michigan.

Once in the states, Alyssia began treatment at Shriners Hospitals for Children — Chicago. She and her family say that Shriners Hospitals was the one place that correctly diagnosed her condition. Doctors at Shriners Hospitals provided care that enabled Alyssia to see success both in and out of the water.

When she was in middle school, Alyssia gained national media attention when, after many surgeries and painful procedures, she made the decision to have her leg amputated. She said that prayers and a desire to have an active life were behind her courageous choice. News organizations ran Alyssia's story, including a video of her scoring during a basketball game.

"I am excited to have the chance to represent my country while competing in a sport I really love," said Alyssia. She knows that there are no limits to what she can achieve, in or out of the water.

Shriners Hospitals for Children is proud to cheer on Alyssia. She is an excellent role model for young patients who may be facing tough physical and mental challenges of their own.

'Twas the night before voting . . .

'Twas the night before voting,
and all through the land,
Voters were fretting
and wringing their hands.

Their clothing set out for the very next day
But how would they vote?
Not a person could say!

So while they did toss,
as they turned in their beds,
Visions of corruption
were dancing in heads.

And mamma with her Xanax,
I with Prozac,
Tried to settle our nerves
with too many snacks.

When out on the lawn
there arose such a clatter,
I sprang from the bed
to see what was the matter.

Away to the window,
I flew like The Flash,
Tore open the shutters
and threw up the sash.

When what to my wondering eyes should appear
But a choir of angels saying "Don't fear."

"God is still sovereign . . .

Editors Comment: This should bring comfort to those who feel all is lost

Purveyor Of Corruption Retiring

Senate Minority Leader Harry Reid (D-Nev) is set for retirement, but he couldn't resist unleashing a barrage of unwarranted attacks on his Republican colleagues before lurching back to his home state. Reid, who has been one of the most divisive politicians on Capitol Hill for the last decade, used the final day of the congressional term to lash out at the GOP and their 2016 presidential nominee.

"I feel compelled to comment on how Republicans have treated the president of the United States during the last eight years," Reid said Thursday. "History will look back and note the Republicans in Congress treated President Obama with unprecedented disrespect."

Well, you get the respect you give.

Reid said that Senate Republicans "have not done the basic work of government," which, in Reid's twisted mind, means going along with whatever Barack Obama dreams up in the Oval Office.

"They have not stood by their commitments to restore regular order or to pass a budget," he said. "Republicans have spent their time doing everything in their power to discredit President Obama and empower Donald Trump."

That's a laugh. Republicans in Congress are doing everything possible to empower Trump? If that job is limited to Mitch McConnell's refusal to hold confirmation hearings on a Supreme Court nominee, we can forgive this otherwise-ridiculous comment, but Reid didn't specify. In fact, as he continued, it became clear that he has a very distorted view of how the GOP establishment has treated their presidential nominee.

"The only thing Republicans have done this year was to prove that they are the party of Trump," he said. "They are the party of Trump. They would have us believe that Trump just fell out of the sky and somehow mysteriously became the nominee of the party, but that's not the way it is."

1. Reid needs some help when it comes to keeping his tenses straight. He's all over the place with "was" and "is." Maybe he can consult an elementary English book in his retirement.
2. Reid was all too happy to use the filibuster when Democrats were in control of the Senate, so his criticism of Republicans reeks of hypocrisy.
3. Reid is out of his gourd if he thinks congressional Republicans paved the way for Donald Trump. If anything, it was their inability to stand on principle and block the worst of Obama's agenda that gave rise to Trump. Trump isn't the ultimate manifestation of the Republican Party; he's a message from Republican voters to the party elite: You had your chance, now we're doing this.

"He is their Frankenstein monster," Reid said.

No, sir. He's OUR Frankenstein monster. And much like the one in the movie, he's unjustifiably demonized and willfully misunderstood by the village idiots on Capitol Hill, including both Republicans and Democrats. They're coming after him with their torches and pitchforks, blithely unaware that in attacking him, they are attacking us. And if they keep it up, they may be joining Harry Reid in the world of the unemployed very soon.

The average age of the military man is 19 years. He is a short haired, tight-muscled kid who, under normal circumstances is considered by society as half man, half boy. He never really cared much for work and he would rather wax his own car than wash his father's, but he has never collected unemployment either.

He's a recent High School graduate; he was probably an average student, pursued some form of sport activities, drives a ten year old jalopy, and has a steady girlfriend that either broke up with him when he left, or swears to be waiting when he returns from half a world away. He listens to rock and roll or hip-hop or rap or jazz or swing and a 155mm howitzer.

He is 10 or 15 pounds lighter now than when he was at home because he is working or fighting from before dawn to well after dusk. He has trouble spelling, thus letter writing is a pain for him, but he can field strip a rifle in 30 seconds and reassemble it in less time in the dark. He can recite to you the nomenclature of a machine gun or grenade launcher and use either one effectively if he must.

Tiny diamonds could enable huge advances in nanotechnology

Read more at: <http://phys.org/news/2016-06-tiny-diamonds-enable-huge-advances.html#jCp>

June 8, 2016

Journal Nature Communications

Nanomaterials have the potential to improve many next-generation technologies. They promise to speed up computer chips, increase the resolution of medical imaging devices and make electronics more energy efficient. But imbuing nanomaterials with the right properties can be time consuming and costly. A new, quick and inexpensive method for constructing diamond-based hybrid nanomaterials could soon launch the field forward.

University of Maryland researchers developed a method to build diamond-based hybrid nanoparticles in large quantities from the ground up, thereby circumventing many of the problems with current methods. The technique is described in the June 8, 2016 issue of the journal Nature Communications.

The process begins with tiny, nanoscale diamonds that contain a specific type of impurity: a single nitrogen atom where a carbon atom should be, with an empty space right next to it, resulting from a second missing carbon atom. This "nitrogen vacancy" impurity gives each diamond special optical and electromagnetic properties.

By attaching other materials to the diamond grains, such as metal particles or semiconducting materials known as "quantum dots," the researchers can create a variety of customizable hybrid nanoparticles, including nanoscale semiconductors and magnets with precisely tailored properties.

"If you pair one of these diamonds with silver or gold nanoparticles, the metal can enhance the nanodiamond's optical properties. If you couple the nanodiamond to a semiconducting quantum dot, the hybrid particle can transfer energy more efficiently," said Min Ouyang, an associate professor of physics at UMD and senior author on the study.

Evidence also suggests that a single nitrogen vacancy exhibits quantum physical properties and could behave as a quantum bit, or qubit, at room temperature, according to Ouyang. Qubits are the functional units of as-yet-elusive quantum computing technology, which may one day revolutionize the way humans store and process information. Nearly all qubits studied to date require ultra-cold temperatures to function properly.

A qubit that works at room temperature would represent a significant step forward, facilitating the integration of quantum circuits into industrial, commercial and consumer-level electronics. The new diamond-hybrid nanomaterials described in Nature Communications hold significant promise for enhancing the performance of nitrogen vacancies when used as qubits, Ouyang noted.

Tiny diamonds could enable huge advances in nanotechnology

This electron microscope image shows two hybrid nanoparticles, each consisting of a nanodiamond (roughly 50 nanometers wide) covered in smaller silver nanoparticles that enhance the diamond's optical properties. Credit: Min Ouyang

While such applications hold promise for the future, Ouyang and colleagues' main breakthrough is their method for constructing the hybrid nanoparticles. Although other researchers have paired nanodiamonds with complementary nanoparticles, such efforts relied on relatively imprecise methods, such as manually installing the diamonds and particles next to each other onto a larger surface one by one. These methods are costly, time consuming and introduce a host of complications, the researchers say.

"Our key innovation is that we can now reliably and efficiently produce these freestanding hybrid particles in large numbers," explained Ouyang, who also has appointments in the UMD Center for Nanophysics and Advanced Materials and the Maryland NanoCenter, with an affiliate professorship in the UMD Department of Materials Science and Engineering.

The method developed by Ouyang and his colleagues, UMD physics research associate Jianxiao Gong and physics graduate student Nathaniel Steinsultz, also enables precise control of the particles' properties, such as the composition and total number of non-diamond particles. The hybrid nanoparticles could speed the design of room-temperature qubits for quantum computers, brighter dyes for biomedical imaging, and highly sensitive magnetic and temperature sensors, to name a few examples.

"Hybrid materials often have unique properties that arise from interactions between the different components of the hybrid. This is particularly true in nanostructured materials where strong quantum mechanical interactions can occur," said Matthew Doty, an associate professor of materials science and engineering at the University of Delaware who was not involved with the study. "The UMD team's new method creates a unique opportunity for bulk production of tailored hybrid materials. I expect that this advance will enable a number of new approaches for sensing and diagnostic technologies."

The special properties of the nanodiamonds are determined by their nitrogen-vacancies, which cause defects in the diamond's crystal structure. Pure diamonds consist of an orderly lattice of carbon atoms and are completely transparent. However, pure diamonds are quite rare in natural diamond deposits; most have defects resulting from non-carbon impurities such as nitrogen, boron and phosphorus. Such defects create the subtle and desirable color variations seen in gemstone diamonds.

The nanoscale diamonds used in the study were created artificially, and have at least one nitrogen vacancy. This impurity results in an altered bond structure in the otherwise orderly carbon lattice. The altered bond is the source of the optical, electromagnetic and quantum physical properties that make the diamonds useful when paired with other nanomaterials.

Although the current study describes diamonds with nitrogen substitutions, Ouyang points out that the technique can be extended to other diamond impurities as well, each of which could open up new possibilities.

"A major strength of our technique is that it is broadly useful and can be applied to a variety of diamond types and paired with a variety of other nanomaterials," Ouyang explained. "It can also be scaled up fairly easily. We are interested in studying the basic physics further, but also moving toward specific applications. The potential for room-temperature quantum entanglement is particularly exciting and important."

More information: "Nanodiamond-Based Nanostructures for Coupling Nitrogen-Vacancy Centers to Metal Nanoparticles and Semiconductor Quantum Dots," Jianxiao Gong, Nathaniel Steinsultz and Min Ouyang, was published in the journal Nature Communications on June 8, 2016.

THE HISTORICAL REALITY OF OUR FAITH

Can you imagine peering into the tomb where Jesus' body was laid? Well, last month, archaeologists did just that.

For a sixty-hour period beginning on October 26th, researchers had unprecedented access to the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, the site long-venerated as the place where Joseph of Arimathea placed Jesus' body on Good Friday.

Then on October 28th, the tomb was resealed and may not be re-opened until, as the Nicene Creed says, He comes again in glory to judge the living and the dead.

As National Geographic told readers, "While it is archaeologically impossible to say that the tomb recently uncovered in the Church of the Holy Sepulchre is the burial site of . . . Jesus of Nazareth, there is indirect evidence to suggest that the identification of the site by representatives of the Roman emperor Constantine some 300 years later may be a reasonable one."

First some history: According to the historian Eusebius of Caesarea, the Roman Emperor Hadrian, about 100 years after Jesus' death and resurrection, had a temple dedicated to the goddess Aphrodite built over the site of Jesus' tomb. This was not by accident.

Two centuries later, the emperor Constantine had the pagan temple demolished and in the process, discovered what was believed to be the tomb of Jesus. Constantine ordered a church to be built around the tomb.

The church we see at the site today is not the original. That one was damaged by earthquakes and fires. It was repaired but later demolished by a Fatimid caliph in the early eleventh century and then rebuilt again and damaged again, so forth and so on.

Yet the pilgrims kept coming, so much so that in the 16th century the burial bed in the tomb was covered in marble to keep people from taking home souvenirs.

This is a great story, but is there reason to believe that it's the site of God's mightiest work, the raising of Jesus from the dead?

What researchers found was "perfectly consistent with what we know about how wealthy Jews disposed of their dead in the time of Jesus."

Wealthy Jews like Joseph of Arimathea.

The presence of other tombs nearby shows that "this area was a Jewish cemetery outside the walls of Jerusalem in the time of Jesus," which is consistent with the Gospels' account of Jesus' burial as well as with Hebrews 13:12, "And so Jesus also suffered outside the city gate."

Dan Bahat, the former city archaeologist of Jerusalem, put it this way: "We may not be absolutely certain that the site of the Holy Sepulcher Church is the site of Jesus' burial, but we certainly have no other site that can lay a claim nearly as weighty, and we really have no reason to reject the authenticity of the site."

Like I said, it's a great story. But it's also a reminder that Christianity is a faith rooted in real time. The events that began on Good Friday and culminated on Easter Sunday took place, not in some mythological time, but in human history.

Think of Luke's gospel and its companion volume, the Book of Acts. Luke names specific Roman emperors and governors, not Zeus and Hermes. As I recently related on BreakPoint, his description of the riot at Ephesus in Acts 19 included details that only someone intimately acquainted with the city could have known.

It could hardly be otherwise. We are saved by a historical act: the Incarnation, Death, and Resurrection of Jesus of Nazareth, the Son of God.

And one day, that history will culminate in his return in glory. We know this because the tomb that was opened last month was empty.

EMPTY! Praise God EMPTY!

Food For Thought

by George Davis

In 1949 the communist revolution marked the end of all missionary efforts in China. All foreign missionaries were expelled. After the communist takeover the Chinese government bitterly attacked the Church in China, driving it underground.

For 25 years China was closed to any outside "Christian" influences. Little information filtered through the tight-knit bamboo curtain. All remaining Christian leaders were rounded up wholesale and were either imprisoned or killed outright. Everything that was considered "Christian" was destroyed, church building, bibles, hymnals, everything.

For 25 years a holocaust far exceeding that, inflicted on the Jews by Nazi Germany, ensued. It is estimated that about 27 million died during this purging.

In 1978 Deng Xiaoping came into power and China opened her borders once again. The western world stood in breathless anticipation. What would they find in the aftermath of such a horrible slaughter? Missionaries from around the world stood ready, poised in anxious intrepidity. Would there even be one surviving believer? Nothing could have possibly prepared them for what they were about to see!

After 25 years of horrendous persecution the missionaries returned to find that the church in China had not been obliterated, as many had feared, but that they had grown in number from the estimated one million believers before the 1949 revolution, to about 30 million. The contrast was amazing!

What had caused such unprecedented growth? How could this be? Not only had they grown numerically but they had grown spiritually. The tales of their devotion to Christ are nothing short of inspirational.

Most bewildering is the fact that this unparalleled growth occurred without the aid of any of those things that are thought to be essential in denominational churches today.

Without the aid of professional pastors/priests, church buildings, bibles, Sunday-school materials, homilies, hymnals and mass gatherings, the Church in China has grown numerically and spiritually to be the most victorious expression of Christ's Church on the earth today.

By all accounts, nothing like it has existed since the early Church. The very gates of hell could not prevail against her!

Makes you think doesn't it?

No, We Can't "Agree to Disagree" on Marriage

AND HERE'S WHY
Can Christians agree to disagree? Well, when it comes to certain issues, the answer is. . .

NO!

For years, a steady drumbeat of Christian pastors, musicians, and authors have announced they've "evolved" on the issue of homosexuality. Authors like Matthew Vines and more recently, Jen Hatmaker, musician Nicole Nordeman and Yale philosopher Nicholas Wolterstorff argue that the Bible doesn't actually condemn same-sex "marriage." Christians, they say, should bless such unions as "holy."

Many of them have said that even if we don't agree, we shouldn't make it a big deal. We can "agree to disagree," they say. Typically, they offer one of three reasons.

First, this issue, they say, is like the mode of baptism, or worship styles, or wine versus grape juice in the Lord's Supper. In other words, homosexuality is a matter of preference, an area where believers can respect one another's differences.

But this doesn't make sense for either side.

Advocates of same-sex "marriage" say it's a human right. If that's true, the traditional view is not just mistaken, it's dangerous! Opponents say that acts of homosexuality are sinful. If that's true, then Christians can't agree to disagree either.

Second, we often hear that the Church is evolving on this issue, especially every time a Christian celebrity changes their minds. But the vast majority of evangelicals still hold to the traditional view, and they're not changing their minds anytime soon. As my "BreakPoint This Week" cohost, Ed Stetzer, points out in Christianity Today, "Evangelical organizations across the spectrum are making clear where they stand on marriage." Groups like the Council for Christian Colleges and Universities, InterVarsity Christian Fellowship, Christianity Today, and even more progressive social-justice-minded organizations like World Vision and Fuller Seminary, have all unambiguously committed to hold the line on this issue.

As have denominations. Virtually every evangelical communion has reaffirmed God's design for sex and marriage. Even in the United Methodist Church, long considered a stronghold of liberal theology, and in the worldwide Anglican communion, the marriage debate has taken a conservative turn as traditional members in Africa and elsewhere exert their influence.

But, some will reply, "If Christians don't all agree on what marriage is, you can't say there's such a thing as 'the Christian position.'" But Christian truth isn't made of what people who call themselves Christians say. It's revealed truth, made known through creation, through Scripture, ultimately through Christ—each of which are quite clear about what makes us male and female, what marriage is, and about sexual morality.

Which is why Christians never questioned marriage until culturally yesterday. A post-sexual revolution claim just a few years old does nothing to negate the consistent Christian witness about marriage throughout all of history.

Which brings up the final argument, "If marriage is a core part of Christian teaching," we hear, "why isn't it in the creeds or the councils? Why did no one talk about it until now?" The answer is, because no one questioned what marriage is until now—anywhere, much less in the Church.

Throughout history, the need to clarify certain Christian doctrines has almost always arisen because of challenges. No one thought we needed a canon, until Marcion suggested some books weren't Scripture. No one thought we needed to clarify Jesus' place in the Godhead, until the Arian heresy. In each case, what was upheld wasn't a theological innovation, but a clarification of the consistent Christian teaching.

So next time someone says, let's just agree to disagree about this issue, say, "No. Instead, let's agree to love each other and to pursue the truth together." That's a much better way forward.

Know the Language of Human Trafficking:

by IWB · Published November 3, 2016 · Updated November 5, 2016

Correction officers in our nation's prisons and jails may be among the best positioned of all law enforcement officers to throw roadblocks in the way of human trafficking crimes.

John Meekins has been a correctional officer in a women's prison for more than nine years and has witnessed inmates being solicited and coerced while behind bars. Sometimes these women are recruited by other female inmates who are paid by outside pimps.

"These recruiters coerce female inmates into working for the traffickers," says Meekins. "When they walk out to what they think is freedom, the traffickers are right there to pick them up to lead them into the worst kind of slavery."

In other cases, female inmates are directly contacted by sex traffickers through websites like paperdollpenpals.com and jailbabes.com, which provides inmates' mailing address.

But how can correctional officers identify the signs of human trafficking within facilities?

The most common way, says Meekins, is to pay attention to what's being said and written. Many traffickers send letters and money to prisoners in an effort to build a relationship with them. In these letters traffickers try to convince inmates to live with them when they leave prison.

Correctional officers, especially those who screen phone calls and mail, need to be educated and well versed in the language of human trafficking.

Here is glossary of sex trafficking terms and slang phrases commonly used by traffickers:

Automatic: A term denoting the victim's "automatic" routine when her pimp is out of town, in jail, or otherwise not in direct contact with those he is prostituting. Victims are expected to comply with the rules and often do so out of fear of punishment or because they have been psychologically manipulated into a sense of loyalty or love. All money generated on "automatic" is turned over to the pimp. This money may be used to support his concession/phone account or to pay his bond if he's in jail.

Bottom or "Bottom Bitch": A female appointed by the trafficker/pimp to supervise the others and report rule violations. Operating as his "right hand," the Bottom may help instruct victims, collect money, book hotel rooms, post ads, or inflict punishments on other girls.

Branding: A tattoo or carving on a victim that indicates ownership by a trafficker/pimp/gang.

Caught A Case: A term that refers to when a pimp or victim has been arrested and charged with a crime.

Choosing Up: The process by which a different pimp takes "ownership" of a victim. Victims are instructed to keep their eyes on the ground at all times. According to traditional pimping rules, when a victim makes eye contact with another pimp (accidentally or on purpose), she is choosing him to be her pimp. If the original pimp wants the victim back, he must pay a fee to the new pimp. When this occurs, he will force the victim to work harder to replace the money lost in the transaction. (See Reckless Eyeballing)

Circuit: A series of cities among which prostituted people are moved. One example would be the West Coast circuit of San Diego, Las Vegas, Portland, and the cities in between. The term can also refer to a chain of states such as the "Minnesota pipeline" by which victims are moved through a series of locations from Minnesota to markets in New York.

Coercion: Threats or perceived threats of serious harm to or physical constraints against any person; a scheme intended to cause a person to believe that failure to perform will result in serious harm to or physical restraint against any person.

Commercial Sex Act: Any sex act on account of which anything of value is given to or received by any person.

Cousin-in-Laws: Victims of pimp partners who work together.

Daddy: The term a pimp will often require his victim to call him.

Date: The exchange when prostitution takes place, or the activity of prostitution. A victim is said to be "with a date" or "dating."

Exit Fee: The money a pimp will demand from a victim who is thinking about trying to leave. It will be an exorbitant sum, to discourage her from leaving. Most pimps never let their victims leave freely.

Facilitators: It is important to realize that human trafficking operations often intersect or exist alongside legitimate businesses. As a result, certain industries may help to enable, support, or facilitate human trafficking. This "support structure" may include a wide range of individuals, organizations, businesses and corporations, and Internet sites and practices. Common facilitators on which traffickers frequently rely include:

- Hotels and Motels
- Landlords
- Labor brokers
- Taxi and other driving services
- Airlines, bus, and rail companies
- Advertisers (Websites like Craigslist.com and Backpage.com; Phone books; Alternative newspapers)
- Banks and other financial services companies
- Inmate pen-pal services

Family/Folks: The term used to describe the other individuals under the control of the same pimp. He plays the role of father (or "Daddy") while the group fulfills the need for a "family."

Think your body is yours to do with as you please? Lifescopes says, "Think again!"

Jesus said, "If your eye is pure, there will be sunshine in your soul. But if your eye is clouded with evil thoughts and desires, you are in deep spiritual darkness. And oh, how deep that darkness can be!"

For if the gospel we preach is hidden, it is hidden only to those who are being lost. They do not believe because their minds have been kept in the dark by the evil god of this world. He keeps them from seeing the light shining on them, the light that comes from the Good News about the glory of Christ, Who is the exact likeness of God.

Lord, I know that a person's life doesn't really belong to him. No one can control his own life. Lord, correct me, but be fair. Don't punish me in anger. If You do, You will destroy me. Pour out Your anger on other nations. They do not know You. They do not pray to You. Those nations have destroyed Jacob's family. They have eaten him up. They destroyed his homeland.

Everyone dies because all of us are related to Adam, being members of his sinful race, and wherever there is sin, death results. But all who are related to Christ will rise again. Each, however, in his own turn: Christ rose first; then when Christ comes back, all His people will become alive again. After that the end will come when He will turn the kingdom over to God the Father, having put down all enemies of every kind. For Christ will be King until He has defeated all His enemies, including the last enemy - death. This too must be defeated and ended. For the rule and authority over all things has been given to Christ by His Father; except, of course, Christ does not rule over His Father Himself, Who gave Him this power to rule. When Christ has finally won the battle against all His enemies, then He, the Son of God, will put Himself also under His Father's orders, so that God Who has given Him the victory over everything else will be utterly supreme. He canceled the unfavorable record of our debts, with its binding rules, and did away with it completely by nailing it to the cross. Jesus said, "The time of judgment for the world has come - and the time when Satan, the prince of this world, shall be cast out. And when I am lifted up [on the cross], I will draw everyone to Me."

The Black Telephone

When I was a young boy, my father had one of the first telephones in our neighborhood. I remember the polished, old case fastened to the wall. The shiny receiver hung on the side of the box.. I was too little to reach the telephone, but used to listen with fascination when my mother talked to it.

Then I discovered that somewhere inside the wonderful device lived an amazing person. Her name was "Information Please" and there was nothing she did not know. Information Please could supply anyone's number and the correct time.

My personal experience with the genie-in-a-bottle came one day while my mother was visiting a neighbor. Amusing myself at the tool bench in the basement, I whacked my finger with a hammer, the pain was terrible, but there seemed no point in crying because there was no one one to give sympathy. I walked around the house sucking my throbbing finger, finally arriving at the stairway. The telephone! Quickly, I ran for the footstool in the parlor and dragged it to the landing.

Climbing up, I unhooked the receiver in the parlor and held it to my ear. "Information, please," I said into the mouthpiece just above my head.

A click or two and a small clear voice spoke into my ear. "Information."

"I hurt my finger..." I wailed into the phone, the tears came readily enough now that I had an audience..

"Isn't your mother home?" came the question.

"Nobody's home but me," I blubbered.

"Are you bleeding?" the voice asked.

"No," I replied. "I hit my finger with the hammer and it hurts."

"Can you open the icebox?" she asked.

I said I could.

"Then chip off a little bit of ice and hold it to your finger," said the voice..

After that, I called "Information Please" for everything. I asked her for help with my geography, and she told me where Philadelphia was.

She helped me with my math.

She told me my pet chipmunk that I had caught in the park just the day before, would eat fruit and nuts.

Then, there was the time Petey, our pet canary, died. I called, "Information Please," and told her the sad story. She listened, and then said things grown-ups say to soothe a child. But I was not consoled. I asked her, "Why is it that birds should sing so beautifully and bring joy to all families, only to end up as a heap of feathers on the bottom of a cage?"

She must have sensed my deep concern, for she said quietly, "Wayne, always remember that there are other worlds to sing in."

Somehow I felt better.

Another day I was on the telephone, "Information Please."

"Information," said in the now familiar voice.

"How do I spell fix?" I asked.

All this took place in a small town in the Pacific Northwest. When I was nine years old, we moved across the country to Boston. I missed my friend very much.

"Information Please" belonged in that old wooden box back home and I somehow never thought of trying the shiny new phone that sat on the table in the hall. As I grew into my teens, the memories of those childhood conversations never really left me.

Often, in moments of doubt and perplexity I would recall the serene sense of security I had then. I appreciated now how patient, understanding, and kind she was to have spent her time on a little boy.

A few years later, on my way west to college, my plane put down in Seattle. I had about a half-hour or so between planes. I spent 15 minutes or so on the phone with my sister, who lived there now. Then without thinking what I was doing, I dialed my hometown operator and said, "Information Please."

Miraculously, I heard the small, clear voice I knew so well.

"Information."

I hadn't planned this, but I heard myself saying, "Could you please tell me how to spell fix?"

There was a long pause. Then came the soft spoken answer, "I guess your finger must have healed by now."

I laughed, "So it's really you," I said. "I wonder if you have any idea how much you meant to me during that time?"

"I wonder," she said, "if you know how much your calls meant to me. I never had any children and I used to look forward to your calls."

I told her how often I had thought of her over the years and I asked if I could call her again when I came back to visit my sister.

"Please do," she said. "Just ask for Sally."

Three months later I was back in Seattle.

A different voice answered, "Information."

I asked for Sally.

"Are you a friend?" she said.

"Yes, a very old friend," I answered.

"I'm sorry to have to tell you this," She said. "Sally had been working part time the last few years because she was sick. She died five weeks ago."

Before I could hang up, she said, "Wait a minute, did you say your name was Wayne?"

"Yes." I answered.

"Well, Sally left a message for you. She wrote it down in case you called. Let me read it to you."

The note said, "Tell him there are other worlds to sing in. He'll know what I mean."

I thanked her and hung up. I knew what Sally meant.

Never underestimate the impression you may make on others. Whose life have you touched today?

Life is a journey... NOT a guided tour. Life is short; drink the good wine first.

Finesse Pimp/Romeo Pimp: One who prides himself on controlling others primarily through psychological manipulation. Although he may shower his victims with affection and gifts (especially during the recruitment phase), the threat of violence is always present.

Force (Federal TVPA Definition): Physical restraint or causing serious harm. Examples of force include kidnapping, battering, kicking, pushing, denial of food or water, denial of medical care, forced use of drugs or denial of drugs once a victim is addicted, forced to lie to friends and family about their whereabouts, being held in locked rooms or bound.

Fraud: Knowingly misrepresenting the truth or concealing an actual fact for the purpose of inducing another person to act to her/his detriment. Examples of fraud include false promises for specific employment, being promised a certain amount of money that is never paid, working conditions are not as promised, being told she or he would receive legitimate immigration papers or a green card to work but the documents are not obtained.

Gorilla (or Guerilla) Pimp: A pimp who controls his victims almost entirely through physical violence and force.

Head Cut: A victim getting beaten down by their pimp.

Human smuggling: The facilitation, transportation, attempted transportation, or illegal entry of a person or persons across an international border, in violation of one or more countries' laws, either clandestinely or through deception, such as the use of fraudulent documents.

In-Pocket: Not paying any other pimp than the one controlled by the victim. Not speaking to any other pimp.

"John" (a/k/a Buyer or "Trick"): An individual who pays for or trades something of value for sexual acts.

Kiddie Stroll: An area known for prostitution that features younger victims.

Loose Bitch: Pimps call a loose bitch a victim who keeps choosing different pimps.

Lot Lizard: Derogatory term for a person who is being prostituted at truck stops.

Madam: An older woman who manages a brothel, escort service or other prostitution establishment. She may work alone or in collaboration with other traffickers.

Out of Pocket: The phrase describing when a victim is not under control of a pimp but working on a pimp-controlled track, leaving her vulnerable to threats, harassment, and violence in order to make her "choose" a pimp. This may also refer to a victim who is disobeying the pimp's rules.

Pimp: A person who controls and financially benefits from the commercial sexual exploitation of another person. The relationship can be abusive and possessive, with the pimp using techniques such as psychological intimidation, manipulation, starvation, rape and/or gang rape, beating, confinement, threats of violence toward the victim's family, forced drug use, and the shame from these acts to keep the sexually exploited person under control.

Pimp Circle: When several pimps encircle a victim to intimidate through verbal and physical threats in order to discipline the victim or force her to choose up.

Pimp Partner: Two pimps who are friends and allow their victims to work together.

Quota: A set amount of money that a trafficking victim must make each night before she can come "home." Quotas are often set between $300 and $2000. If the victim returns without meeting the quota, she is typically beaten and sent back out on the street to earn the rest. Quotas vary according to geographic region, local events, etc.

Reckless Eyeballing: A term which refers to the act of looking around instead of keeping your eyes on the ground. Eyeballing is against the rules and could lead an untrained victim to "choose up" by mistake.

Renegade: A person involved in prostitution without a pimp.

Seasoning: A combination of psychological manipulation, intimidation, gang rape, sodomy, beatings, deprivation of food or sleep, isolation from friends or family and other sources of support, and threatening or holding hostage of a victim's children. Seasoning is designed to break down a victim's resistance and ensure compliance.

Serving a Pimp: The actual phone call one pimp makes to another after "taking" his victim.

Squaring Up: Attempting to escape or exit prostitution.

Stable: A group of victims who are under the control of a single pimp.

The Game/The Life: The subculture of prostitution, complete with rules, a hierarchy of authority, and language. Referring to the act of pimping as 'the game' gives the illusion that it can be a fun and easy way to make money, when the reality is much harsher. Women and girls will say they've been "in the life" if they've been involved in prostitution for a while.

Track (a/k/a Stroll or Blade): An area of town known for prostitution activity. This can be the area around a group of strip clubs and pornography stores, or a particular stretch of street.

Trade Up/Trade Down: To move a victim like merchandise between pimps. A pimp may trade one girl for another or trade with some exchange of money.

Traffickers: Traffickers are people who exploit others for profit. They can be any demographic, individuals and groups, street gangs and organized crime, businesses or contractors.

Trick: Committing an act of prostitution (verb), or the person buying it (noun). A victim is said to be "turning a trick" or "with a trick."

Turn Out: To be forced into prostitution (verb) or a person newly involved in prostitution (noun).

The Wire: (1) A pimp hotline, like a phone tree pimps use to get the word around, to find out which city is on/off. (2) Wiring money from victim to pimp in different cities/states ("put it on the wire").

Wifeys/Wife-in-Law/Sister Wife: What women and girls under the control of the same pimp call each other.

~ DIVORCE AGREEMENT ~

WRITTEN BY YOUNG COLLEGE STUDENT..

THIS IS SO INCREDIBLY WELL PUT AND I CAN HARDLY BELIEVE IT'S BY A YOUNG PERSON, A STUDENT!!! WHATEVER HE RUNS FOR, I'LL VOTE FOR HIM.

Dear American liberals, leftists, social progressives, socialists, Marxists and Obama supporters, et al:

We have stuck together since the late 1950's for the sake of the kids, but the whole of this latest election process has made me realize that I want a divorce.

I know we tolerated each other for many years for the sake of future generations, but sadly, this relationship has clearly run its course.

Our two ideological sides of America cannot and will not ever agree on what is right for us all, so let's just end it on friendly terms. We can smile and chalk it up to irreconcilable differences and go our own way.

Here is our separation agreement:

--Our two groups can equitably divide up the country by landmass each taking a similar portion. That will be the difficult part, but I am sure our two sides can come to a friendly agreement. After that, it should be relatively easy! Our respective representatives can effortlessly divide other assets since both sides have such distinct and disparate tastes.

--We don't like re-distributive taxes so you can keep them.

--You are welcome to the liberal judges and the ACLU.

--Since you hate guns and war, we'll take our firearms, the cops, the NRA, and the military.

--We'll take the nasty, smelly oil industry and the coal mines, and you can go with wind, solar and bio-diesel.

--You can keep Oprah, Michael Moore, Rosie O'Donnell, and Hillary Clinton. You are, however, responsible for finding a bio-diesel vehicle big enough to move all four of them.

--We'll keep capitalism, greedy corporations, pharmaceutical companies, Wal-Mart and Wall Street.

--You can have your beloved life-long welfare dwellers, food stamps, hippies, druggies and illegal aliens.

--We'll keep the hot Alaskan hockey moms, greedy CEOs, and rednecks.

--We'll keep Bill O'Reilly and Bibles, and give you CNN ABC. CBS. NBC and Hollywood.

--You can make nice with Iran and Palestine and we'll retain the right to invade and hammer places that threaten us.

So here's the REAL STORY about Benghazi

Amber Stevens was sent to Benghazi post haste in order to retrieve US made Stinger missiles supplied to Ansar al Sharia without Congressional oversight or permission.

Hillary brokered the deal through Amber Stevens and a private arms dealer named Marc Turi.

Then some of the shoulder fired missiles ended up in Afghanistan used against our own military. It was July 25th, 2012 when a Chinook helicopter was taken down by one of our own Stingers, but the idiot Taliban didn't arm the missile and the Chinook didn't explode, but had to land anyway.

An ordnance team recovered the serial number off the missile which led back to a cache of Stingers being kept in Qatar by the CIA.

Obama and Hillary were now in full panic mode and Stevens was sent in to retrieve the rest of the Stingers. This was a "do-or-die" mission, which explains the stand down orders given to multiple commando teams.

It was the State Department, not the CIA that supplied them to our sworn enemies, because Petraeus wouldn't supply these deadly weapons due to their potential use on commercial aircraft.

Then, Obama threw General Petraeus under the bus after he refused to testify that he OK'd the BS talking points about a spontaneous uprising due to a YouTube video.

Obama and Hillary committed treason. THIS is what the investigation is all about, why she had a private server, (in order to delete the digital evidence); and, why Obama, two weeks after the attack, told the UN that the attack was because of a YouTube video, even though everyone knew it was not.

Further, the Taliban knew that this administration aided and abetted the enemy without Congressional approval when Boehner created the Select Committee, and the Taliban began pushing the Obama Administration for the release of 5 Taliban Generals.

Bowe Bergdahl was just a pawn... everyone KNEW he was a traitor. So we have a traitor as POTUS that is not only corrupt, but compromised...and a woman that is a serial liar who perjured herself multiple times at the Hearing and is running for POTUS.

Only the Democrats, with their hands out, palms up, will support her. Perhaps this is why no military aircraft was called in...because the administration knew our enemies had Stingers.

Send this, again and again and again until everyone reads this truth. Our nation depends on people getting the TRUTH, instead of the pack of lies being fed to us by Obama and Clinton.

When Your Hurt's On Fire

Larry Meaux

The only survivor of a shipwreck was washed up on a small, uninhabited island. He prayed feverishly for God to rescue him. Every day he scanned the horizon for help, but none seemed forthcoming. Exhausted, he eventually managed to build a little hut out of driftwood to protect himself from the elements, and to store his few possessions. One day, after scavenging for food, he arrived home to find his little hut in flames, with smoke rolling up to the sky. He felt the worst had happened, and everything was lost. He was stunned with disbelief, grief, and anger. He cried out, 'God! How could you do this to me?'

Early the next day, he was awakened by the sound of a ship approaching the island! It had come to rescue him! 'How did you know I was here?' asked the weary man of his rescuers. 'We saw your smoke signal,' they replied.

The Moral of This Story:

It's easy to get discouraged when things are going bad, but we shouldn't lose heart, because God is at work in our lives, even in the midst of our pain and suffering. Remember that the next time your little hut seems to be burning to the ground. It just may be a smoke signal that summons the Grace of God.

Hallelujah! Hallelujah! God is great

A boy was sitting on a park bench with one hand resting on an open Bible. He was loudly exclaiming his praise to God. "Hallelujah! Hallelujah! God is great!" he yelled without worrying whether anyone heard him or not.

Shortly after, along came a man who had recently completed some studies at a local university. Feeling himself very enlightened in the ways of truth and very eager to show this enlightenment, he asked the boy about the source of his joy.

"Hey" asked the boy in return with a bright laugh, "Don't you have any idea what God is able to do? I just read that God opened up the waves of the Red Sea and led the whole nation of Israel right through the middle."

The enlightened man laughed lightly, sat down next to the boy and began to try to open his eyes to the realities of the miracles of the Bible. "That can all be very easily explained. Modern scholarship has shown that the Red Sea in that area was only 10-inches deep at that time. It was no problem for the Israelites to wade across."

The boy was stumped. His eyes wandered from the man back to the Bible laying open in his lap. The man, content that he had enlightened a poor, naive young person to the finer points of scientific insight, turned to go. Scarcely had he taken two steps when the boy began to rejoice and praise louder than before. The man turned to ask the reason for this resumed jubilation.

"Wow!" exclaimed the boy happily, "God is greater than I thought! Not only did He lead the whole nation of Israel through the Red Sea, He topped it off by drowning the whole Egyptian army in 10 inches of water!"

Sermon on the sin of Lying

A minister told his congregation, "Next week I plan to preach about the sin of lying. To help you understand my sermon, I want you all to read Mark 17."

The following Sunday, as he prepared to deliver his sermon, the minister asked for a show of hands. He wanted to know how many had read Mark 17. Every hand went up.

The minister smiled and said, "Mark has only sixteen chapters. I will now proceed with my sermon on the sin of lying."

Hallelujah and Amen

A man bought a donkey from a preacher. The preacher told the man that this donkey had been trained in a very unique way. The only way to make the donkey go, is to say, Hallelujah

And the only way to make the donkey stop, is to say, "Amen!"

The man was pleased with his purchase and immediately got on the animal to try out the preacher's instructions.

"Hallelujah!" shouted the man. The donkey began to trot. "Amen!" shouted the man. The donkey stopped immediately.

"This is great!" said the man. With a "Hallelujah", he rode off very proud of his new purchase.

The man traveled for a long time through some mountains. Soon he was heading towards a cliff. He could not remember the word to make the donkey stop.

"Stop," said the man. "Halt!" he cried. The donkey just kept going.

"Oh, no..."

"Bible...Church!...Please Stop!!," shouted the man. The donkey just began to trot faster. He was getting closer and closer to the cliff edge.

Finally, in desperation, the man said a prayer...

"Please, dear Lord. Please make this donkey stop before I go Amen Donkey off the end of this mountain, In Jesus name, AMEN."

The donkey came to an abrupt stop just one step from the edge of the cliff.

"HALLELUJAH!", shouted the man.

SQUANTO AND THE PROVIDENCE OF GOD

JOHN STONESTREET

Most of us know the story of the first Thanksgiving; at least we know the Pilgrim version. But how many of us know the Indian viewpoint?

No, I'm not talking about some revisionist, politically correct version of history. I'm talking about the amazing story of the way God used an Indian named Squanto as a special instrument of His providence.

Historical accounts of Squanto's life vary, but historians believe that around 1608, more than a decade before the Pilgrims arrived, a group of English traders sailed to what is today Plymouth, Massachusetts. When the trusting Wampanoag Indians came out to trade, the traders took them prisoner, transported them to Spain, and sold them into slavery. It was an unimaginable horror.

But God had an amazing plan for one of the captured Indians, a boy named Squanto.

Squanto was bought by a well-meaning Spanish monk, who treated him well and taught him the Christian faith. Squanto eventually made his way to England and worked in the stables of a man named John Slaney. Slaney sympathized with Squanto's desire to return home, and he promised to put the Indian on the first vessel bound for America.

It wasn't until 1619, ten years after Squanto was first kidnapped, that a ship was found. Finally, after a decade of exile and heartbreak, Squanto was on his way home.

But when he arrived in Massachusetts, more heartbreak awaited him. An epidemic had wiped out Squanto's entire village.

We can only imagine what must have gone through Squanto's mind. Why had God allowed him to return home, against all odds, only to find his loved ones dead?

A year later, the answer came. A shipload of English families arrived and settled on the very land once occupied by Squanto's people. Squanto went to meet them, greeting the startled Pilgrims in English.

According to the diary of Pilgrim Governor William Bradford, Squanto "became a special instrument sent of God for [our] good . . . He showed [us] how to plant [our] corn, where to take fish and to procure other commodities . . . and was also [our] pilot to bring [us] to unknown places for [our] profit, and never left [us] till he died."

When Squanto lay dying of fever, Bradford wrote that their Indian friend "desir[ed] the Governor to pray for him, that he might go to the Englishmen's God in heaven." Squanto bequeathed his possessions to the Pilgrims "as remembrances of his love."

Who but God could so miraculously convert a lonely Indian and then use him to save a struggling band of Englishmen? It is reminiscent of the biblical story of Joseph, who was also sold into slavery, and whom God likewise used as a special instrument for good.

Squanto's life story is remarkable, and we ought to make sure our children learn about it. Sadly, most books about Squanto omit references to his Christian faith. But I'm delighted to say that my friend Eric Metaxas has written a wonderful children's book called "Squanto and the Miracle of Thanksgiving." I highly recommend it because it will teach your kids about the "special instrument sent of God," who changed the course of American history.

How great to hear again from Chuck Colson. I know that I and my colleagues at BreakPoint are so thankful to God for all that He accomplished through Chuck's life.

And this Thanksgiving on behalf of Chuck and Eric Metaxas, I want you, our BreakPoint readers, to also know how thankful to God we are for you—for all the encouraging words, and prayer and financial support you've provided this ministry over the years. Thank you, from the bottom of our hearts.

And before I go today, I'd be remiss if I didn't mention again that my friend Eric Metaxas wrote a great children's book about Squanto called "Squanto and the Miracle of Thanksgiving." We have it for you at the BreakPoint bookstore online.

In Christ you had a wonderful Thanksgiving.

"A lawyer's dog, Loose in a butcher shop"

A lawyer's dog, running in the local butcher shop, steals a roast off the counter. The butcher goes to the lawyer's office and asks, "If a dog running loose in my butcher shop, steals a piece of meat, do I have a right to demand payment for the meat from the dog's owner?"

"Absolutely," the lawyer responded.

The butcher immediately shot back, "Good! You owe me $7.99 for the roast your dog stole from me this morning."

The lawyer, without a word, writes the butcher a check for $7.99. A few days later, the butcher, browsing through his mail, finds an envelope from the lawyer.

The contents read "Consultation: $25.00."

WE ARE TOLD BY GOD!

And when he had gathered all the chief priests and scribes of the people together, he demanded of them where Christ should be born. And they said unto him, In Bethlehem of Judaea: for thus it is written by the prophet, And thou Bethlehem, in the land of Juda, art not the least among the princes of Juda: for out of thee shall come a Governor, that shall rule my people Israel. - Matthew 2:4-6 KJV

But when the fulness of the time was come, God sent forth his Son, made of a woman, made under the law, To redeem them that were under the law, that we might receive the adoption of sons. - Galatians 4:4-5 KJV

Therefore the Lord himself shall give you a sign; Behold, a virgin shall conceive, and bear a son, and shall call his name Immanuel. - Isaiah 7:14 KJV

And the angel said unto her, Fear not, Mary: for thou hast found favour with God. And, behold, thou shalt conceive in thy womb, and bring forth a son, and shalt call his name JESUS. He shall be great, and shall be called the Son of the Highest: and the Lord God shall give unto him the throne of his father David: And he shall reign over the house of Jacob for ever; and of his kingdom there shall be no end. - Luke 1:30-33 KJV

And in the sixth month the angel Gabriel was sent from God unto a city of Galilee, named Nazareth, To a virgin espoused to a man whose name was Joseph, of the house of David; and the virgin's name was Mary. And the angel came in unto her, and said, Hail, thou that art highly favoured, the Lord is with thee: blessed art thou among women. - Luke 1:26-28 KJV

And Mary said, My soul doth magnify the Lord, And my spirit hath rejoiced in God my Saviour. For he that is mighty hath done to me great things; and holy is his name. - Luke 1:46-47, 49 KJV

Those who attempt to prove that Jesus was truly the son of God most often fail in their attempt. God did not ordain that we convey either scientific or historical proof of Him. He chose rather, that we simply accept Him by faith, feeling no need to 'prove' that He exists by either of those means.

It is our living testimony, the product of our lives, our personal eximplification of His nature and likeness, that God chose as proof that He was born, crucified, buried, resurrected and is alive in our lives today!

It is through crucifixion of ourselves (in Christ Jesus) that we are made able to ultimately manifest that goal. You see, it is truly our selfish earthly nature, walking in the likeness of our forefathers, that prohibits us from entering into the blessings God has laid up for us.

Have you asked Jesus to come into your life?
Have you granted Him full control?
Have you determined to exemplify Him?
Are you truly enjoying the promises of God?
Have you become selfless toward others?

If you answered yes to all of those questions, Christmas, for you, was truly wonderful!

Media Shaves Points To Rig Election

Charles Bush

Throughout the election Donald trump repeated, "The election is rigged."

Now that the election is over this reporter has come to believe that he was absolutely right.

Consider the following with me and pray for enlightenment. Perhaps God will shine a light on the manipulation that could have occurred and let us discover just how 'money motivated' our society has become.

Obama, Pelosi, Clinton and Reid had so violated their privileges while bilking the public out of billions of dollars for personal gain, that revolution had begun to brew.

Rather that forfeit a single opportunity these political hacks determined to milk every dollar they could out of the bureaucratic cow, even though it might destroy the Democratic party.

In order to prevent revolution and preserve the two party system, the media teamed up with the party heads and determined a strategy that could captivate the masses, while opening their wallets like never before.

1. Throughout the campaign the media bombarded the airwaves and internet with conjecture.
2. The media also dissected each tiny statement made by Donald trump (both positive and negative) continually shifting public emotion from winning to losing and vice-versa, thus transforming the election into little more than a common sports event.
3. When Trump moved far ahead in the polls, a negative report would be given, resulting in a drop in the polls.
4. When Trump shifted behind in the polls the media would report an upward trend which tended to shift the polls in the other direction, keeping the score at the exciting one point difference, similar to a game where point shaving genders excess excitement.
5. The internet was bombarded with dozens of daily polls, each soliciting contributions in a manner that always left the individual polled doubting that their selection would be counted unless they contributed at least one dollar.
6. Even the comedians increased their ratings, featuring mimes, pundits, and candidates willing to use their reputations to generate a few bucks.
7. Every media network got as far into the act as possible, milking all of the political advertising dollars the could out of both the politicians and their general advertising accounts.

Everyone in the game was in it for big bucks and everyone who knew how to play the game were exceedingly successful.

The debates alone reflected the largest viewing audiences ever recorded. Far larger than even anticipated, causing ratings to soar and advertising rates to reach an all time high.

Many internet suppliers were confronted with overloads so great that their services were off-line for hours at a time.

Distributors of hats, buttons, bumper stickers and other such junk were unable to supply the demand for their trivia.

The game seemed intermidable. By the time it ended everyone was exhausted. Wow, what an experience!

But, was it real? Did it really happen? Something smelled of fish, didn't it?

That is the question I am raising; and, I think that Donald Trump has the answer.

No, I don't think that it was him who set it all up. He simply didn't have enough control of the media to get that done. it took those at the very top to accomplish it.

Rupert Murdoch, and others of his ilk had probably planned this coup since they ascertained how interested the public were during the Obama elections. There simply had to be a way to lock them in to this new event and siphon their money into it with them.

Donald Trump was not only the ripest of fruit for this money cocktail.

1. His name was already well known because of past show business experience..
2. He was tough, spontaneous, opinionated, vocal and hard skinned enough to indulge any criticism without quitting in mid-stream.
3. He had a family so unified and loyal to one another that nothing would scatter them.
4. He would use his own money rather than entertain the hassle of fund raisers.
5. His wife was immigrant, young and appealing to the young adults that the party must have to win this election.

Put this all together and there was simply no way to miss; and, it could all be precipitated and controlled by a few polls engineered to move the election any direction you wanted it to go.

And then there was the extreme corruption the Clinton's had indulged, most of it fresh and well known by the general electorate in the United States.

Just a little push here and a shove there and the Clinton campaign could flow right into this fix. Why, it didn't even require imagination to set it all up. It was simply a matter of using a small amount of public psychology, a massive amount of media coverage (all of which reduced the cost of every news program), an unusual amount of conjecture, and a gullible bunch of listeners. And, all of that was on hand for the taking.

Yep! I would put my money on it, THE ELECTION WAS RIGGED!

I just wonder if Ted Cruz, Marco Rubio, Chris Christy or any of the other candidates realized that they were pawns in this one sided game?

Perhaps Paul Ryan surmised so. I am fairly certain that Hillary was lured into the game expecting to win it and I am equally certain that Dr. Ben Carson discovered it early enough to abandon the idea of office and position himself to be valuable to everyone involved.

And, to say the very least, foreign governments were knocked off their feet, astounded that any group of people would allow such a chain of events to take place in pursuit of an election. They've lived with such fraud for so long they know that only those as naive as most citizens of the USA could miss that THE ELECTION WAS RIGGED!

Major Depressive Disorder

Major depressive disorder is a serious medical illness affecting an estimated 15 million American adults. For many, their antidepressant may not be working well enough.

A large study showed that 2 out of 3 people taking an antidepressant still experienced symptoms of depression.

Symptoms of depression may last for 2 weeks or more, occurring nearly every day, and may include:

- A depressed mood most of the day (feeling sad, empty, hopeless, or on the verge of tears)
- Loss of interest or pleasure in activities you once enjoyed
- Weight loss (even when not on a diet) or experiencing weight gain. Also note decreases or increases in appetite
- Difficulty sleeping or being overly tired
- Restlessness or feeling slowed down
- Fatigue or a loss of energy
- Feeling worthless or guilty
- A lack of concentration or difficulty with decision making
- Thoughts of death or suicide

How were your symptoms of depression this week? Think about how depression may still be affecting you. Complete the following questionnaire about how you've been feeling over the past week and share it with your healthcare provider.

If you've been on an antidepressant for at least 8 weeks and you're still dealing with symptoms of depression, let your healthcare provider know how you're feeling. He or she may want to make an adjustment to your current treatment plan.

It's important to know that antidepressants may increase suicidal thoughts or actions in some children, teenagers, or young adults within the first few months of treatment. Pay close attention to any changes, especially sudden changes in mood, behaviors, thoughts, or feelings and report such changes to the healthcare provider.

A Republican, in a wheelchair, entered a restaurant one afternoon and asked the waitress for a cup of coffee. The Republican looked across the restaurant and asked, "Is that Jesus sitting over there?"

The waitress nodded, "Yes! So, the Republican requested that she give Jesus a cup of coffee on him.

The next patron to come in was a Libertarian, with a hunched back. He shuffled over to a booth, painfully sat down, and asked the waitress for a cup of hot tea. He also glanced across the restaurant and asked, "Is that Jesus, over there?"

The waitress nodded, so the Libertarian asked her to give Jesus a cup of hot tea, "My treat."

The third patron to come into the restaurant, was a Democrat on crutches. He hobbled over to a booth, sat down and hollered, "Hey there honey! How's about getting me a cold mug of Miller Light!" He, too, looked across the restaurant and asked, "Isn't that God's boy over there?"

The waitress nodded, so the Democrat directed her to give Jesus a cold beer. "On my bill," he said loudly so everyone in the Restaurant could hear.

As Jesus got up to leave, he passed by the Republican, Touched him and said, "For your kindness, you are healed."

The Republican felt the strength come back into his legs, got up and began to praise the Lord.

Jesus passed by the Libertarian, touched him and said, "For your kindness, you are healed."

The Libertarian felt his back straightening up, he raised his hands and he, too, began to praise the Lord.

Then, Jesus walked, with a huge smile on his face, towards The Democrat.

The Democrat jumped up and yelled, "Don't touch me..... I'm on disability."

What the Bible Means

A father was approached by his small son, who told him proudly, "I know hat the Bible means!"

His father smiled and replied, "What do you mean, you 'know' what the Bible means?"

The son replied, "I do know!"

"Okay," said his father. "So, Son, what does the Bible mean?"

"That's easy, Daddy. It stands for Basic Information Before Leaving Earth."

It was three o'clock in the morning, and the receptionist at a posh hotel was just dozing off, when a little old lady came running towards her, screaming. "Please come quickly!" she yelled, "I just saw a naked an outside my window!!!"

The receptionist immediately rushed up to the old lady's room.

"Where is he?" asked the receptionist.

"He's over there," replied the little old lady, pointing to an apartment building opposite the hotel.

The receptionist looked over and could see a man with no shirt on, moving around his apartment. "It's probably a man who's getting ready to go to bed," she said reassuringly.

"And how do you know he's naked, you can only see him from the waist up?"

"The dresser, honey!" screamed the old lady. "Try standing on the dresser!"

Whats 'Da Score?

A father said, "Son, the object of dating is to SCORE! And to do that, you have to give the woman something. So when you pick up your date later, make sure you have some flowers or chocolates to give her. Girls go crazy over that stuff. The more you give, the more you get!"

So, he showed up with flowers AND chocolates.

She was very flattered and pleased, and she rewarded him with a long, passionate kiss. She pressed her chest against him and rubbed her fingers through his hair, hoping to give him the best kiss that he had ever received.

After the kiss, he turned and bolted for the door.

"Oh! I'm sorry," she said. "I didn't mean to scare you away."

"You didn't!" he replied. "I'm going out to get you some jewelry!"
