False Hope!!!!
 False Messiah!!!

By Onan Coca
 February 6, 2014

But the Liberals still worship him as though he were the true messiah.

And it came to pass in the Age of Insanity that the people of the land called America, having lost their morals, their initiative, and their Will to defend their liberties, chose as their Supreme Leader that Person known as "The One."

He emerged from the vapors with a message that had no meaning; but He Hypnotized the people telling them, "I am sent to save you."

My lack of experience, my questionable ethics, my monstrous ego, and my Association with evil doers are of no consequence. I shall save you with Hope and Change. Go, therefore, and proclaim throughout the Land that he who preceded me is evil, that he has defiled the nation, and that all he has built must be destroyed.

And the people rejoiced, For even though they knew not what "The One" would do, he had promised that it was good; and they believed.

And "The One" said " We live in the greatest country in the world. Help me change everything about it!"

And the people said, "Hallelujah! Change is good!"

Then He said, "We are going to tax the rich fat-cats."

And the People said "Sock it to them!"

"And redistribute their wealth."

And the people said, "Show us the money!"

And he said, "Redistribution of wealth is good for everybody..."

And Joe the plumber asked, "Are you kidding me? You're going to Steal my money and give it to the deadbeats??"

And "The One" ridiculed and taunted him, and Joe's personal records were hacked and publicized.

One lone reporter asked, "Isn't that Marxist policy?" And she was banished from the kingdom.

Then a citizen asked, "With no foreign relations experience and having zero military experience or knowledge, how will you deal with Radical terrorists?"

WHAT IF FOSSIL FUEL COULD BE PRODUCED FROM SUNLIGHT

Science + Technology

Creating fuel from sunlight

Turning fossil fuel into energy is easy: You just burn it. And live with the carbon dioxide byproduct. What if we could reverse the process and turn water and carbon dioxide back into fuel?

A dream solution, but it may seem like trying to put the genie back in the bottle.

Not for University of Minnesota researcher Jane Davidson. She and her colleagues are using concentrated light energy equal to 3,000 suns to find the most efficient way to convert carbon dioxide and water into synthetic gas, or "syngas," with solar power.

Syngas is easy to transport via pipelines and is readily converted to high-energy-density liquid hydrocarbon fuels, or "synfuels," with properties equivalent to what we derive from petroleum.

"We are aiming for unprecedented solar-to-fuel efficiencies that will enable the entire sunlight-to-synfuels process to be done with 10 percent efficiency and no input of fossil fuels," says Davidson, a mechanical engineering professor.

"With 10 percent efficiency, we could hypothetically replace all the petroleum consumed today in the United States with solar collectors covering 15 million acres. That's about half of what we use for highways. Solar fuels could play a key role in the energy mix of the next generation."

Graduate student stands next to solar simulator lamps.

Simulated sun, authentic opportunity

At the University's Solar Energy Laboratory, the process begins with an indoor solar simulator in the form of seven mirrored, 6,500-watt lamps that concentrate the light on a 10-centimeter spot with an irradiance of 3,000 suns. (One "sun" equals 1,000 watts of solar energy falling per square meter of surface.) With this concentrated radiant energy, one can generate temperatures of more than 3,600 F in a chemical reactor. There, carbon dioxide and water are split to form carbon monoxide and hydrogen, the two components of syngas.

Davidson, along with mechanical engineering professor Tom Chase and their students, have developed two prototype reactors to split water and CO2. Deploying these technologies in the Earth's sunbelt could yield enough renewable energy to significantly exceed the world's current needs, the researchers say.

"More sun falls on Earth in one hour than is consumed globally in a year," Davidson notes. "Harvesting the sun to meet our energy needs is a challenge with a huge payoff."

Of course, it's a little more complicated than focusing concentrated sunlight into a reactor filled with carbon dioxide and water. The key to the technology rests with using metal oxides in a reduction/oxidation cycle to reduce the temperature required to split water and carbon dioxide.

"Metal oxides allow you to split water and carbon dioxide at temperatures achievable with modern solar concentrating devices," Davidson explains.

In the reactor, the metal oxides go through cycles in which they strip oxygen alternately from carbon dioxide or water—forming carbon monoxide or hydrogen, respectively—then release the oxygen as a byproduct. The syngas formed from the carbon monoxide and hydrogen can be converted into gasoline, diesel, jet fuel, methane (natural gas), or other products.

Davidson and her colleagues have produced syngas this way in their laboratory. They have moved from bench top experiments to demonstration in prototype reactors. While Davidson and Chase concentrate on designing reactors, University chemistry professor Andreas Stein and colleagues at Caltech and UCLA are researching new materials that could increase the efficiency and ease of operation.

If adopted, a "sunlight to synfuels" process would be an energy supply system in which the same amount of carbon dioxide that is removed from the atmosphere and locked into the fuels is released when the fuels are burned. Thus, it would be carbon neutral. And because synfuels can be the same as the conventional fuels, they won't require a new infrastructure.

From bad to worse . . . to, astonishing!

Have you ever noticed that the harder you pray, the worse things get? It seems to be a biblical pattern! For instance, take the story of Jairus' daughter. Here's how it seems to play out:

The Problem looks bad

Jairus, a synagogue leader comes to Jesus with an urgent request. "My little daughter is at the point of death. Come and lay your hands on her, so that she may be made well and live."

(Mark 5:23) But what happens?

Someone else's prayer is answered before yours

Jesus is delayed in going with this very important religious leader to address an anonymous, poor woman. She suffered from "a discharge of blood for twelve years, and had suffered much under many physicians, and had spent all that she had, and was no better but rather grew worse." (Mark 5:25-26).

So, while Jesus is healing this insignificant nobody, Jairus is tapping his sandal and glaring at a nearby sundial. And then . . .

The problem gets worse

Really worse! Ten whole verses later we read, "While [Jesus] was still speaking, there came from the ruler's house some who said, "Your daughter is dead. Why trouble the Teacher any further?" (Mark 5:35)

Do you find things worse place after making your request known. As a member of the Presidential Prayer Team, this must frustrate you. (It does me!) You pray for God to intervene as it seems the country is going from bad to worse! More political scandal, more debt, more vices being legislated into virtues.

The Lord promises a solution

"But overhearing what they said, Jesus said to the ruler of the synagogue, "Do not fear, only believe." (Mark 5:36)

The exact phrase, "Do not fear" is used 51 times from Genesis to Revelation. (One inspirational Facebook post—not the most theologically reliable medium—is going "viral" claiming it's commanded 365 times, one for each day of the year. I could find only around 80 in context, but I digress!)

The bottom line, the Bible says "Do not fear" . . . a lot! It's too easy to break into a cold sweat, restock your bunker and clean your weapons after watching the evening news. But the biblical command concerning fear is DON'T!

Belief in promise ridiculed by unbelievers

When Jesus arrives on the scene, the professional mourners and flute players had already been hired and were creating quite a cacophony. According to tradition—and the Jerusalem Musicians Union 777—the family of the dead were required to hire this troupe for a proper period of mourning. So, when Jesus announces the girls is not dead, but merely sleeping, the unbelievers have a field day mocking Christian faith. Sound familiar?

Unbelievers are shut out, only those who believe invited in care for that part about higher electric rates.

So "The One" said, Not to worry. If Your rebate isn't enough to cover your expenses, we shall bail you out.

Just sign up with the ACORN and you troubles are over!"

Then He said, "Illegal immigrants feel scorned and slighted. Let's grant them amnesty, Social Security, free education, free lunches, Free medical care, bilingual signs and guaranteed housing...

"And the people said, "Hallelujah!" and they made him king!

And so it came to pass that employers, facing spiraling costs and ever-higher taxes, raised their prices and laid off workers.

Others simply gave up and went out of business and the economy sank like unto a rock dropped from a cliff.

The banking industry was destroyed.

Here's where today's "faith healers" and "miracle workers" diverge from Jesus' approach. Instead of inviting in the media for Brother Bob Blessing's Miracle Crusade, the Lord doesn't allow the unbelievers and skeptic in for a "show." This is a private sacred moment.

God seems to work in anonymity, behind the scenes. "Look not to the things that are seen but to the things that are unseen. For the things that are seen are transient, but the things that are unseen are eternal. (2 Corinthians 4:18)

A far greater miracle occurs than the smaller miracle sought

God has a flare for the dramatic! The Israelites don't simply stroll out of Egypt. They're trapped between the Egyptian army and the Red Sea—so God simply blows a dry path through the sea and then as a final dramatic flair, drowns the pursuing army. The three Hebrew young men don't talk their way out of the fiery furnace—they simply enjoy a bracing sauna with a heavenly being. And King Jehoshaphat doesn't confront an enemy army with force, but the worship team. They "kill" the musical set—and every one of the enemy soldiers.

And so, rather than simply raising up a young girl from her sick bed, Jesus raises her from her funeral pyre! And the believers are "immediately overcome with amazement." (The Greek word existemi, translated amazed, actually means to be "astonished out of one's mind.")

So continue to pray for government leaders and legislators. Don't let up! But be aware, that the situation may go from bad to worse. But do not fear, God will answer "far more abundantly than all that we ask or think." (Ephesians 3:20) You will be astonished out of your mind!

THE NATIONAL PRAYER BREAKFAST

The National Prayer Breakfast is a yearly event held in Washington, D.C., on the first Thursday of February each year. The founder of this event was Abraham Vereide.[1] The event—which is actually a series of meetings, luncheons, and dinners—has taken place since 1953 and has been held at least since the 1980s at the Washington Hilton on Connecticut Avenue NW.

The breakfast, held in the Hilton's International Ballroom, is typically attended by some 3,500 guests, including international invitees from over 100 countries.

The National Prayer Breakfast is hosted by members of the United States Congress and is organized on their behalf by The Fellowship Foundation, a conservative Christian organization more widely known as "The Family". Initially called the Presidential Prayer Breakfast, the name was changed in 1970 to the National Prayer Breakfast.

It is designed to be a forum for the political, social, and business elite to assemble and build relationships. Since the inception of the National Prayer Breakfast, several U.S. states and cities and other countries have established their own annual prayer breakfast events.

Every U.S. president since Dwight D. Eisenhower has participated in the annual event.

While Members of the U.S. Congress, of the U.S. Cabinet, and of the diplomatic corps in Washington are typically invited to participate in the National Prayer Breakfast, the other more than 3,000 guests come from a variety of walks of life.

Six heads of state attended the 2008 breakfast, along with Members of the European Parliament; United Nations diplomats; European, Asian, African and Latin American politicians; missionaries working in various countries; U.S. and foreign business leaders; and students. Benazir Bhutto, former prime minister of Pakistan, participated on more than one occasion, and a video

And "The One" said, "Simple. I shall sit with them and talk with them and show them how nice we really are; and they will forget that they ever wanted to kill us all!"

And the people said, "Hallelujah! We are safe at last, and we can beat our weapons into free cars for the people!"

Then "The One" said "I shall give 95% of you lower taxes."

And one, Lone voice said, "But 40% of us don't pay ANY taxes."

"So "The One" Said, "Then I shall give you some of the taxes the fat-cats pay!"

And the people said, "Hallelujah! Show us the money!"

Then "The One" said, "I shall tax your Capital Gains when you sell your homes!"

And the people yawned and the slumping housing market collapsed.

And He said. "I shall mandate employer-funded health care for every worker and raise the minimum wage. And I shall give every Person unlimited healthcare and medicine and transportation to the Clinics."

...Oh, except for Muslims for Muslims shall not pay their share of healthcare.

And the people said, "Give me some of that!"

Then he said, "I shall penalize employers who ship jobs overseas."

And the people said, "Where's my rebate check?"

Then "The One" said, "I shall bankrupt the coal industry and electricity rates will skyrocket!"

And the people said, "Coal is dirty, coal is evil, no more coal! But we don't Manufacturing slowed to a crawl and more of the people were without a means of support.

Then "The One" said, "I am the "the One"- The Messiah and I'm here To save you!

We shall just print more money so everyone will have enough!"

But our foreign trading partners said unto Him. "Wait a Minute. Your dollar is not worth a pile of camel dung! You will have to pay more..."

And "The One" said, "Wait a minute. That is unfair!!"

And the world said, "Neither are these other idiotic programs you have embraced.

Lo, you have become a Socialist state and a second-rate power. Now you shall play by our rules!"

And the people cried out, "Alas, alas!! What have we done?"

Safe Driving After Age 60

If you are age 60 or older, driving a car might be riskier than you realize.

Research shows that our ability to see moving objects while we ourselves are in motion deteriorates much sooner than our ability to see stationary objects. Age-related eye diseases also can compromise vision, even before we are aware of symptoms.

As we grow older, our driving skills are further challenged because we also lose peripheral vision and our reaction time slows.

Driving Tips for Older Motorists

These tips can help you stay safe on the roadways, especially at night:

- Don't use your cell phone while driving. This is a bad idea at any age. But older drivers particularly are slower to react to a driving emergency, even without the distraction of a cell phone.
- The risks of talking on the phone while driving are documented in more than 125 studies, according to the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety (IIHS). When reviewing some of these studies in 2000, the Harvard School of Public Health found that cell phones reduce reaction time and performance in older motorists more than in younger drivers.
- If you are over 60, your eyesight likely is not as good as it once was. You can improve driving safety with a few simple precautions, such as making sure you turn your head to look both ways at intersections.

- Use extra caution at intersections. In a 2007 study, the IIHS found 40 percent of fatal collisions involving elderly motorists occurred at intersections. The most common reason for these crashes was a failure to yield, especially when making a left turn.
- Avoid driving on unfamiliar streets at night. The National Safety Council says traffic death rates are three times higher at night than during the day. As aging Baby Boomers continue to take to the roads at night — in greater numbers than their parents — the risk of fatal crashes is expected to increase substantially.

Even if you wear eyeglasses that seem to work well, you may not be equipped for glare, hard-to-read signs and the other unique challenges of twilight and nighttime driving. For these reasons, you should avoid routes with poor lighting, irregular twists and poor signage.

- Assess your driving ability based on reactions of others. Honking horns, worried loved ones, warnings from police and blinding headlights suggest rethinking where and for how long you should drive.

If you are having difficulty, limit yourself to shorter trips, preferably during daylight and when weather conditions are favorable. Keep your car in good repair, plan extra time for travel, stay the recommended distance behind the vehicle in front of you and follow expert advice for driving safely.

Obama's America

Film producer Dinesh D'Souza, a 'renegade conservative', was recently indicted for election campaign finance fraud charges. Is this a coincidence?

He may or may not be guilty. What is known is that Dinesh D'Souza is a political enemy of President Barack Hussein Obama because he produced the surprise hit and highest grossing documentary 'Obama's America 2016' that came out just before the 2012 elections.

D'Souza made three predictions at the end of his movie:

1. He predicted Obama would not do anything significant to stop Iran from getting nuclear weapons and he hasn't. The most recent negotiations have stalled as centrifuges continue to spin. Russia, an ally of Iran in its nuclear program development and supporter at the United Nations, senses Obama's weakness. As we watch Russia waltz into Ukraine with military forces without fear, we have to wonder about the United States diminishing influence on the world stage.

2. Next D'Souza predicted that Obama would spend money like the deficit did not matter and he has. In fact, every year, Obama has increased the debt by one trillion dollars. The U.S. debt is now over 17 trillion dollars. This huge debt is a global redistribution of wealth to other nations, many who are not friends of America.

3. D'Souza predicted that Obama would cut defense and increase taxes. Secretary of State Chuck Hagel just announced the White House plan to severely cut back defense spending. Obama himself is asking for cuts in defense and increases in taxes in his new budget.

I would say that is three for three, a trifecta, according to current events. I believe the accuracy of D'Souza's forecast has made him the perfect conservative political target as they try to extinguish his voice, just like the IRS did with TEA Party conservatives.

The question is how did this guy, a foreign student from Mumbai, India, that eventually became a U.S. citizen and a college president, get it right?

Well, you will have see the movie at our next TEA Party meeting, rent or buy the movie, or go online and watch it for free to find out.

Class War At Its Best.

The folks who are getting the free stuff don't like The folks who are paying for the free stuff, because The folks who are paying for the free stuff can no longer Afford to pay for both the free stuff and their own stuff. And the folks who are paying for the free stuff Want the free stuff to stop.

And the folks who are getting the free stuff want even more Free stuff on top of the free stuff they are already getting! Now... The people who are forcing the people who pay For the free stuff have told the people who are RECEIVING The free stuff that the people who are PAYING for the Free stuff are being mean, prejudiced, and racist. So.... The people who are GETTING the free stuff have been Convinced

They need to hate the people who are paying for the free stuff By the people who are forcing some people to pay For their free stuff

And giving them the free stuff in the first place. We have let the free stuff giving go on for so long that there Are now more people getting free stuff than paying for the Free stuff.

Now understand this.

All great democracies have committed financial suicide somewhere Between 200 and 250 years after being founded.

The reason?

The voters figured out they could vote themselves money From the treasury by electing people who promised to give Them money from the treasury in exchange for electing them.

The United States officially became a Republic in 1776, 236 years ago.

The number of people now getting free stuff Outnumbers the people paying for the free stuff. Failure to change that spells the end of the United States As we know it.

Heartburn Versus Acid Reflux- Which Do You Have?

by Dr. Mark Rosenberg, M.D.

When my patients come in complaining of getting burning chest pain after eating spicy food, or burping up hot acid and/or regurgitating food that wakes them up in the middle of the night, almost always they'll describe their symptoms as "heartburn" or "indigestion". In some instances they're correct, but others not. Some patients actually have acid reflux disorder, or GERD (gastroesophageal reflux disorder), which has a different physical cause and requires different treatment than heartburn. What's the difference? Well, that's what we're going to talk about today!

Heartburn

Heartburn is a relatively common condition. In fact, over 60,000,000 Americans have heartburn symptoms at least once a month! Heartburn can occur after eating too much acidic, spicy, or high fat foods at one time like having spaghetti with tomato sauce for dinner, a glass of wine, salad with vinaigrette dressing, and a piece of rich chocolate cake for dessert. Eating like this is almost always a recipe for heartburn that can keep you awake most of the night trying to put out the fire in your chest! You may even burp up hot acid into the back of your throat.

The prime offenders of heartburn are usually the following:

- Chocolate
- Tomato sauce
- Alcohol
- Coffee
- Citrus fruits: Oranges, grapefruit, lemons
- Fried and/or high fat foods like nuts, avocado, high fat meats
- Carbonated sodas
- Spicy foods – jalapeno pepper, cayenne, red pepper, "hot sauce" items
- Garlic and onion
- Peppermint – confusing, as it's touted as a stomach soother, but the oils in peppermint can relax the lower esophageal sphincter and cause acid to creep back up the esophagus

How To Avoid Heartburn

If you're sensitive to the above foods, and find that eating them brings on a case of heartburn, it's best then to avoid them. If you have severe heartburn that occurs more than 2 times a week, you may actually have acid reflux, or GERD, a condition that you should see a doctor for. Other ways to avoid triggering heartburn include:

- Don't eat in a rush – gulping down food can cause you not to digest it properly
- Don't eat a big meal and lie down – take a 20-30 minute walk to help you digest your food before going to bed for the night or lying down on the couch to watch TV
- Eat smaller meals – don't combine known trigger foods at one time
- Don't wear tight clothes – especially around your waist
- Don't smoke – triggers heartburn by stimulating digestive acids
- Use a digestive – like oolong tea with your food. Helps break down heavy fats, neutralize acids, digest food and move it out of the stomach faster

Acid Reflux/GERD

Acid reflux, or GERD, on the other hand, is somewhat more involved than the occasional case of simple heartburn. At the base of your stomach, there is a structure called the lower esophageal sphincter, or LES, a valve that opens and shuts letting acid-digested food pass out of your stomach into your small intestine.

If we eat heavy, oily, acidic dishes, or sometimes, even peppermint, the LES can relax so much that digestive acids reflux, or come back up the esophagus.

This refluxed acid usually causes pain and burning. You can also regurgitate swallowed food, begin to cough, sometimes chronically, if acid droplets persistently get into your lungs. In addition, there are several other symptoms that can be caused by acid reflux that may surprise you including:

- Chronic hiccups, burping – you swallow more trying to keep regurgitated food down
- Chronic sore throat – acid can cause inflammation and pain of the throat tissues
- Chronic hoarseness or "hot potato" voice – acid can affect your vocal chords as well
- Bloody stool – acid can cause irritation and bleeding along the digestive tract
- Sinus congestion – mucus protects the lining of your sinuses. Acid can back so far up the throat that it stimulates mucus production in response to the irritating agent

How To Avoid Acid Reflux Symptoms

Like heartburn, acid reflux can have many of the same triggers including the same foods (see list above), smoking, and/or going to bed or lying down on the couch right after eating a big meal. In addition there are several other things that can bring on a bout of acid reflux including:

- Muscle relaxants – like ibuprofen, also relax the LES muscles and keep the valve open
- Aspirin – causes irritation of the stomach
- Certain health conditions – like diabetes, pregnancy, and stress can aggravate acid reflux by loosening the LES
- Constant stress – can cause you to overproduce digestive acid

Some Natural Treatments You Can Do

As I tell my patients, we can all experience a bout of heartburn, or perhaps even acid reflux, on occasion from overindulgence in food and drink. Avoiding, or minimizing, the triggers listed here can help you avoid heartburn and/or acid reflux. However, if you do still get the occasional heartburn or acid reflux, here are some natural remedies you can try on your own:

- Green, "Granny Smith" apple – the strong malic acid in these apples helps counteract sour digestive acids and soothe irritation. Eat the entire apple.
- Apple Cider Vinegar – A natural, "kitchen medicine" cure for acid reflux. 2 tablespoons good quality apple cider vinegar in cool water has given many near instant relief.
- Take Licorice – deglycyrrhized licorice lozenges found in health food stores stimulates production of mucus that protects the digestive tract. The anti-inflammatory properties heal inflamed tissues and prevent further damage to the digestive tract.
- Take Ginger – long used for digestive upsets, tea or lozenges (found in health food stores), helps neutralize digestive acids.
- Drink plain, filtered water – at onset of acid. Water dilutes the acid and helps move digested food out of the stomach.
- Mila – a high Omega-3 fat natural food/seed from the Chia plant. Absorbs 7-10 times its weight in liquid. Drinking 1/3-cup Mila gel at onset of acid quells the burning pain.
- Chewing gum – for minor cases of heartburn, chewing a stick of gum, for some people, will relieve it almost immediately.

Heartburn and acid reflux are at best uncomfortable and at worst very painful conditions, which can recur if you continue to indulge in poor dietary and lifestyle habits. Following the suggestions offered here can help you avoid triggering these conditions in the future.

Remember to see your doctor if you experience severe symptoms of heartburn and/or acid reflux 2 or more times a week. Untreated, chronic acid reflux can weaken and damage digestive tract tissues that can lead to more serious conditions

Pepper Component, Capsaicin, Triggers Suicide In Prostate Cancer Cells

Capsaicin, the stuff that turns up the heat in jalapenos, not only causes the tongue to burn, it also drives prostate cancer cells to kill themselves, according to studies published in the March 15 issue of Cancer Research.

According to a team of researchers from the Samuel Oschin Comprehensive Cancer Institute at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center, in collaboration with colleagues from UCLA, the pepper component caused human prostate cancer cells to undergo programmed cell death or apoptosis.

Capsaicin induced approximately 80 percent of prostate cancer cells growing in mice to follow the molecular pathways leading to apoptosis. Prostate cancer tumors treated with capsaicin were about one-fifth the size of tumors in non-treated mice.

Capsaicin had a profound anti-proliferative effect on human prostate cancer cells in culture, said Sren Lehmann, M.D., Ph.D., visiting scientist at the Cedars-Sinai Medical Center and the UCLA School of Medicine. It also dramatically slowed the development of prostate tumors formed by those human cell lines grown in mouse models.

Lehmann estimated that the dose of pepper extract fed orally to the mice was equivalent to giving 400 milligrams of capsaicin three times a week to a 200 pound man, roughly equivalent to between three and eight fresh habanera peppers - depending on the pepper's capsaicin content. Habaneras are the highest rated pepper for capsaicin content according to the Scoville heat index. Habanera peppers, which are native to the Yucatan, typically contain up to 300,000 Scoville units. The more popular Jalapeno variety from Oaxaca, Mexico, and the southwest United States, contains 2,500 to 5,000 Scoville units.

As described in their study, the scientists observed that capsaicin inhibited the activity of NF-kB, a molecular mechanism that participates in the pathways leading to apoptosis in many cell types.

Apoptosis is a normal cellular event in many tissues that maintains a balance between newer replacement cells and aged or worn cells. In contrast, cancer cells seek to be immortal and often dodge apoptosis by mutating or deregulating the genes that participate in programmed cell death.

When we noticed that capsaicin affected NF-kB, that was an indication that we might expect some of the apoptotic proteins to be affected, said the study's senior author, Phillip Koeffler, M.D., director of Hematology and Oncology, Cedars-Sinai Medical Center, and professor at UCLA.

The pepper extract also curbed the growth of prostate cancer cells through regulation of androgen receptors, the steroid activated proteins that control expression of specific growth relating genes.

In prostate cancer cells whose growth is dependent on testosterone, the predominant male sex steroid, capsaicin reduced cell proliferation in a dose-dependent manner. Increased concentrations of capsaicin caused more prostate cancer cells to freeze in a non-proliferative state, called G0/G1.

Prostate cancer cells that are androgen independent reacted to capsaicin in a similar manner.

Capsaicin reduced the amount of androgen receptor that the tumor cells produced, but did not interfere with normal movement of androgen receptor into the nucleus of the cancer cells where the steroid receptor acts to regulate androgen target genes such as prostate specific antigen (PSA). Capsaicin also interfered with the action of androgen receptors even in cells that were modified to produce excess numbers of androgen receptors.

The hot pepper component also reduced cancer cell production of PSA, a

I was on reflux drugs like omeprazole (PPIs) for over ten years and even had surgery for severe reflux. I was determined to get off the PPIs, so I started drinking ginger tea, eating crystallized ginger when acute pain hit, snacking on several almonds every few hours, and taking a teaspoon of honey at night before bed. It definitely helped ease the symptoms but did not eliminate the heartburn.

Feeling discouraged, I ate some jalapeno-topped snacks even though my doctor had warned me to avoid anything hot. My reflux is now kept in check by jalapenos every few days without needing anything else! The reflux pain only returns if I go a week without eating any jalapenos.

I have been PPI-free for several months now and feel so much better. Why would jalapenos make such a difference so quickly? The pain eases within an hour of eating them and lasts for several days.

There is research suggesting that capsaicin (the hot stuff in jalapeno peppers) may be protective for the stomach lining (Journal of Physiology, Paris, Jan-Dec, 2001).

Although some people experience discomfort when they eat hot peppers, regular use appears to decrease reflux symptoms (Journal of Neurogastroenterology and Motility, April, 2010).

This may be related to the way regular use of capsaicin cream on the skin can reduce pain, by depleting substance P that transmits pain.

EDITORS TESTIMONIAL: After reading the above testimonial I was very skeptical; however, almost anything is worth a try when you suffer from heartburn and/or acid reflux. I was suffering from both but particularly from reflux.

Each evening I would awaken after sleeping about 2 hours, choking gasping and having difficulty catching my breath.

It felt like I had swallowed a gulp of water "down the wrong pipe". I would jump out of bed and try as I may, I could not get my throat free of that husky feeling that follows such an episode.

A search of the WalMart store payed off. In the pickile section I discovered "Mount Olive Chopped Jalapenos". A small jar that revealed no seeds and none of the membrane from the core of the jalapeno; so I knew that they would be mild to the palette.

That evening I decided to try them on a couple of tostadas; so, I placed mozerella and pepperjack cheese on tostada shells and covered them with the chopped jalapenas. Then I toasted them until the cheese was melted. They tasted wonderful, were not extremely pepper hot in the mouth and actualy satisfie my appetite with a lot less calories than I usually consume for an evening meal.

With the tostadas I drank my usual 16 Oz. glass of whole milk and went immediatly to bed and quickly to sleep. The alarm startled me awake the next morning from a peaceful sleep; and guess what, I had no acid reflux during the night.

Since that event I have made it a practice to repeat it two or three times a week. I hae had no more heartburn or aci reflux and my weight is slowly coming down. PRAISE GOD FOR JALAPENOS! - Wes Bush protein that often is produced in high quantities by prostate tumors and can signal the presence of prostate cancer in men. PSA content in the blood of men is used as a diagnostic prostate cancer screening measure. PSA is regulated by androgens, and capsaicin limited androgen-induced increases of PSA in the cancer cell lines.

More men in the United States develop prostate cancer than any other type of malignancy. Every year, more than 232,000 new cases of prostate cancer are diagnosed in the U.S., and more than 680,000 develop the disease worldwide. Approximately 30,000 men die from prostate cancer in the U.S. each year, which is about 13 percent of all new cases. Worldwide, there are 221,000 deaths - approximately 31 per cent - among men with prostate cancer.

Lehman conducted the studies in Koeffler's laboratory in collaboration with UCLA cancer researchers Akio Mori, James O'Kelly, Takishi Kumagai, Julian Desmond, Milena Pervan, and William McBride. Mosahiro Kizaki, a former post-doctoral fellow in Koeffler's laboratory who initiated the capsaicin studies, is currently at the Keio University School of Medicine, Tokyo, Japan.

The mission of the American Association for Cancer Research is to prevent and cure cancer. Founded in 1907, AACR is the world's oldest and largest professional organization dedicated to advancing cancer research. Our members include more than 24,000 basic, translational, and clinical researchers; health care professionals; and cancer survivors and advocates in the United States and more than 60 other countries.

AACR marshals the full spectrum of expertise from the cancer community to accelerate progress in the prevention, diagnosis and treatment of cancer through high-quality scientific and educational programs, and funding meritorious research projects. The AACR Annual Meeting attracts some 16,000 participants who share the latest discoveries and developments. Special Conferences throughout the year present novel information across a wide variety of cancer research and patient care topics.

AACR publishes five major peer-reviewed journals: Cancer Research; Clinical Cancer Research; Molecular Cancer Therapeutics; Molecular Cancer Research; and Cancer Epidemiology, Biomarkers & Prevention, as well as CR, a magazine about people and progress in cancer. <http://www.aacr.org>

Feds want to track your DNA like a license plate

Feds Seek 'biosignature' spying ability to 'identify, locate specific individuals'

Steve Peacock is a freelance writer and photographer whose work has appeared in the Tampa Tribune, WND, Drug Enforcement Report, Corrections Journal and the Revered Review. He also is a teacher, storyteller, actor and poet. rss feed Subscribe to feed

The federal government doesn't just want the ability to track down your car; it wants to be able to track down your body as well.

Just as details are emerging about a controversial, nationwide vehicle-surveillance database, WND has learned the federal government is planning an even more invasive spy program using "physiological signatures" to track down individuals.

The goal of this research is to detect – as well as analyze and categorize – unique traits the government can exploit to "identify, locate and track specific individuals or groups of people."

According to the program's statement of objectives, "The scope of human-centered [intelligence, surveillance and reconnaissance, or ISR] research spans the complete range of human performance starting at the individual molecular, cellular, genomic level."

Documents WND located through routine database research reveal the ability to follow people by detecting "certain characteristics of operational interest" is designed for U.S. military and intelligence-gathering superiority.

It remains unknown when such capabilities might transition to the realm of domestic counterterrorism or law enforcement operations; however, the feds – through the Air Force Research Lab, or AFRL – are recruiting private-sector assistance in order to make this "biosignature" spying a reality.

Existing ISR systems are "ideal for identifying and tracking entities such as aircraft and vehicles, but are less capable of identifying and tracking the human," the lab says in a planning document known as a Broad Agency Announcement, or BAA.

The Human-Centered ISR Leveraged Science & Technology Program will seek to develop, with outside help, technologies that the government can use "to identify, locate and track humans of interest within the operational environment," according to solicitation No. BAA-HPW-RHX-2014-0001.

Research specific to fusing and analyzing sensor data has undergone consistent growth, but such efforts have been "system-centric" and fail to "adequately address the human element."

This new research scheme seeks to strengthen the ability of intelligence analysts by placing the human component at the forefront of their efforts.

AFRL's research could have implications for a variety of domains, such as air, space and cyberspace, it says. The program's outcome also will broadly apply to other U.S. Department of Defense organizations and the intelligence community.

A second component of the AFRL initiative is the Human Trust and Interaction Program, which will conduct research into human-to-human and human-to-machine interactions.

This program segment entails several sub-areas, including Trust and Suspicion, which will focus on "the recognition of suspicious activities in the cyberspace realm."

This segment will examine open-source data such as social media. It also will continue to leverage "more traditional intelligence sources."

AFRL says it anticipates awarding three or four initial contracts for the overall initiative, which has an estimated program value of about $50 million.

The goal of this and other AFRL programs typically start out as largely theoretical, similar to the approach taken by the more widely known Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency, or DARPA, which created ARPANET, the defense-system predecessor to the Internet.

UNITER OR DIVIDER? ?

I recall the propaganda we were deluged with leading up to the 2008 elections. Obama was the final answer to the divisions that exist in our nation, especially facing the race issue. The flood of propaganda said we can finally deal with not only the race issue but a myriad of other very deep and complicated divisions plaguing our nation.

I especially remember the way Bush was portrayed as too simple minded to realize and understand more than one subject at a time while Obama was so brilliant he could multitask and accomplish an almost endless number of diverse circumstances. Part of the explanation for this enormous ability would come from Obama's vast field of acquaintances that he had met and cultivated to appoint to his staff and head the great number of departments and committees in our government.

We heard from every pundit in the mainstream media how various opponents of Obama couldn't hold a candle to him in the fields of foreign, fiscal and personnel policies. But disturbing facts about his past continued to surface, facts that many of us couldn't reconcile. Never mind, those surrounding Obama swept them under the rug and forgot about them without explaining anything. "If I don't see it, it isn't there," approach to contending with the many and large issues surrounding Obama's troubling history.

It soon became evident that Obama had no intention of uniting the country, in fact he prefers to treat it as a means of separating the rest of the nation from his corps of true believers. Anyone who has opposed his socialist policies in the past will be demonized and held up to ridicule on the media news daily. The method he uses to accomplish this is to propose an other hand, merely has to solicit bids from industry for a National License Plate Recognition, or NLPR, database system.

While DHS is soliciting this service specifically for Immigration and Customs Enforcement, or ICE, functions, the breadth of this NLPR service encompasses the gathering of transportation-movement data from major metropolitan areas nationwide.

This database, which would be fed with information gleaned from multiple sources, would "track vehicle license plate numbers that pass through cameras or are voluntarily entered into the system," according to the program solicitation.

issue a normal citizen or legislator will object to and frame it so any objection to it is a form of discrimination. Even if the issue wasn't considered discrimination for all of history, under the Obama administration it is now certainly discrimination and to be in step with history itself, we all have to take an abrupt left turn in our thinking and embrace his new definition under consideration. Once he succeeds in correcting the nation on that issue he'll go to a new one and quickly describe more victims that need to be liberated and brought into his group of followers. Never mind that he tramples on the conscience and beliefs of millions of honest men and women who have spent their entire lives living in a just and moral manner.

Obama professes to be a Christian only for political purposes and holds up the credentials of his faith, a church he had attended for decades, but the average Christian has serious doubts regarding that church and its' leader. It doesn't fit the description of any Christian Church or any believer in the faith. He has gone to great lengths to protect his early history from public view and spent serious money hiring lawyers to hide much of it. Every legal and honest citizen can immediately prove their authenticity using social security numbers that coincide with their state of registration but Obama's past is lost in a haze of numbers that don't reconcile anything. His very background that authorizes his presidential candidacy hasn't been proven to a vast number of people who are ridiculed for even doubting his birth certificate. But experts point out great and many problems with the one he has produced. A panel of qualified investigators with

The vehicle tracking-data then would be "uploaded to share with law enforcement."

The database will be compatible with smart phone technology, enabling law enforcement offices to download thousands of listings – as well as close-up photos – of vehicle license plates.

Once DHS secures this service, the contractor must retain and make available data from previous months, as well as update the system with "new and unique" data monthly.

DHS anticipates awarding a one-year contract with four one-year options by May 14. It did not disclose the estimated cost.

Alzheimer's, The Root Cause

After much prayer and listening to God, my conclusion is that a group of four things are at the root of Alzheimer's Disease. But then, who am I to tell the scientists and medical doctors what the continue to admit they do not already know.

During the past several years extensive research has taught the medical profession much about Alzheimer's; but, nothing about the cause or cure has appeared on the scene. After billions of dollars have been spent attempting to discover the cause it has been determined that:

- Alzheimer's is hereditary
- Alzheimer's can be diagnosed in an accurate fashion
- Alzheimer's progression leaves an easily determined stage of progression

You would think that researchers would turn to the one who created man to find the answer; however, when you grant God no credibility you would never accept His word on the subject anyway.

SO, you will waste your time sharing this article with your doctor, even though it is true.

Four conditions must be met in order to create Alzheimer's disease.

1. Immorality must be indulged for a period of time [within a family unit]. This lays the foundation of iniquity within that genetic strain that is passed on to the third and fourth generation. {Please note that it will require three or four generations of absolute righteous living to permanently break that genetic propensity.}

Exodus 34:6-8 (KJV) And the Lord passed by before him, and proclaimed, The Lord, The Lord God, merciful and gracious, long-suffering, and abundant in goodness and truth, Keeping mercy for thousands, forgiving iniquity and transgression and sin, and that will by no means clear the guilty; visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children, and upon the children's children, unto the third and to the fourth generation.

2. A God defying diet ultimately destroys the immune system that God placed in man. When left in it's original perfect condition, that immune system can protect against almost any disease or infirmity.

Immorality and a poor diet go hand in hand. While we are practicing immorality a poor conscience searches for any substitute that seems permissible. One of those substitutes is junk foods and beverages.

God instructed that we should never eat pork, fish without scales, crustaceans or unclean fowl; and if we choose to indulge these things for a sustained period of time we are likely to suffer gout, heart disease or other ailments.

The same is true of eating excessive amounts red meat and the internal parts of animals. This includes wieners, sausage, liver etc.

Although God did not forbid the eating of beef and other red meat, He encouraged eating it only one or two times each month by eating it only on feast days; and, he strictly forbade the eating of the internal parts from which we make wieners, potted meats, etc.

3. Chemical abuse, pollution and contamination work to the harm of all human beings, some caused by nature and others of man's own doing. Chemicals such as fertilizer, pesticides, fumes like exhaust, methane, plastics, solvents, etc., and heavy metals ingested in water, breathing and certain foods are often indulged with no thought to their consequence.

Men and women frequently use harmful materials with no protective masks or clothing and in close environments with restricted fresh air.

The effects are disastrous.

4. Acute Mental Stress of various kinds and from various sources tend to put the physical body into a state of decline, causing sickness and infirmity, inflammations and other maladies.

Fear, shame, guilt, worry, lust and many other unclean spirits, when entertained, cause a weakening of the immune systems ability to ward off illness and disease.

Matthew 6:34 KJV - Take therefore no thought for the morrow: for the morrow shall take thought for the things of itself. Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof.

Considering the above, I am convinced that the root of Alzheimer's disease rests in the above four, virtually universally indulged, practices.

The sad thing is that in today's world it is nearly impossible to teach the very young to avoid any one of these; therefore the diseases triggered by them have become impossible to stop.

They simply progress to generation after generation almost unhindered.

In order to stop that progression we must convince the child to avoid indulging the least part of every one of these roots, throughout their lives; and, to convince their children to do the same, to the third and fourth generation.

In only this manner will the generational curses brought on by them be broken and the diseases stopped.

Deuteronomy 30:19-20 (KJV)

I call heaven and earth to record this day against you, that I have set before you life and death, blessing and cursing: therefore choose life, that both thou and thy seed may live:

That thou mayest love the Lord thy God, and that thou mayest obey his voice, and that thou mayest cleave unto him: for he is thy life, and the length of thy days: that thou mayest dwell in the land which the Lord swore unto thy fathers, to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, to give them.

In His wisdom, and because He loved you and me so intensely, He gave us His life giving instruction of what to do, what not to do, what to eat and the attitudes to maintain, in order for us to make the long journey from death unto life.

The question is, are you hungering and thirsting for righteousness? Will you enter into it? Will you live long and in good health?

Perhaps this knowledge will be useful to that end. You can only achieve righteousness by hearing and obeying.

Was the death of Christ a surprise? Lifescopes says, "It was no April Fool's Joke!"

Jesus replied that the time had come for Him to return to His glory in heaven, and that "I must fall and die like a kernel of wheat that falls into the furrows of the earth.

Unless I die I will be alone - a single seed. But My death will produce many new wheat kernels - a plentiful harvest of new lives.

If you love your life down here - you will lose it. If you despise your life down here - you will exchange it for eternal glory . . . The time of judgment for the world has come - and the time when Satan, the prince of this world, shall be cast out.

And when I am lifted up [on the cross], I will draw everyone to Me." He said this to indicate how He was going to die.

"Die?" asked the crowd. "We understood that the Messiah would live forever and never die. Why are you saying He will die? What Messiah are you talking about?"

Jesus replied, "My light will shine out for you just a little while longer. Walk in it while you can, and go where you want to go before the darkness falls, for then it will be too late for you to find your way. Make use of the Light while there is still time; then you will become light bearers." After saying these things, Jesus went away and was hidden from them.

But despite all the miracles He had done, most of the people would not believe He was the Messiah. This is exactly what Isaiah the prophet had predicted: "Lord, who will believe us? Who will accept God's mighty miracles as proof?" But they couldn't believe, for as Isaiah also said: "God has blinded their eyes and hardened their hearts so that they can neither see nor understand nor turn to Me to heal them." Isaiah was referring to Jesus when he made this prediction, for he had seen a vision of the Messiah's glory.

However, even many of the Jewish leaders believed Him to be the Messiah but wouldn't admit it to anyone because of their fear that the Pharisees would excommunicate them from the synagogue; for they loved the praise of men more than the praise of God.

[Jesus told His disciples:] "In just a little while I will be gone, and you will see Me no more; but just a little while after that, and you will see Me again!"

THE SPOKESMEN SAY'S HARRY REID IS A LIAR

Under Sen. Harry Reid's control, the Senate spends virtually no time talking about jobs and economic growth even though that's the number one priority for Americans.

And even though Obamacare is the largest obstacle to jobs, growth, and opportunity, the Democrats refuse to do anything about it.

Instead of providing meaningful relief for Americans, Sen. Reid recently went to the Senate floor and said that all the Obamacare "horror stories" being told by Americans are "untrue." Can you believe that? Now is the time to do something about it. Please join our fight to elect conservative reinforcements to the Senate, take back the majority and retire Sen. Reid as Majority Leader once and for all by making a donation here: <http://do.nr/rp4>

Here is a new version just for us who have white hair or no hair at all. For us over middle age (or even those almost there) and all you others, check out this newest version of Jesus Loves Me.

JESUS LOVES ME
Senior Version

Jesus loves me, this I know,
Though my hair is white as snow
Though my sight is growing dim,
Still He bids me trust in Him.

(CHORUS)

YES, JESUS LOVES ME..

YES, JESUS LOVES ME..

YES, JESUS LOVES ME FOR THE BIBLE TELLS ME SO.

Though my steps are oh, so slow,
With my hand in His I'll go
On through life, let come what may,
He'll be there to lead the way.

(CHORUS)

When the nights are dark and long,
In my heart He puts a song.
Telling me in words so clear,
"Have no fear, for I am near."

(CHORUS)

When my work on earth is done,
And life's victories have been won.
He will take me home above,
Then I'll understand His love.

(CHORUS)

I love Jesus, does He know?
Have I ever told Him so?
Jesus loves to hear me say,
That I love Him every day.

(CHORUS)

If you think this is neat, please pass it on to your friends. If you do not pass it on, nothing bad will happen, but you will have missed an opportunity to "Reach out and Touch" a friend or a loved one.

Sheriff Arpaio of Arizona has examined Obama's early history and pronounced him fraudulent. I tend to believe the good sheriff over anyone in the Obama regime, none of whom have a good record for handling the truth.

Global warming is a strong issue of late and this year they're increasing the pressure to get us off of fossil fuels. That issue is a long list of lies and junk science, that holds no credibility to the thinking public. No matter what the weather is doing at the time, it's the fault of fossil fuels. Never mind that those fuels have improved the lives of the whole world, one that used to walk on streets paved with horse manure and was crowded with swarms of flies and mosquitoes. He has even said our utility bills will go up drastically so he can get the fossil fuel industry under control. Are you in favor of that?

Obama's regime can justify spending unheard of amounts of money that support mostly his supporters, such as states' union members who have gone broke and bankrupted large cities and states. The jobs it would create never happened. Arguing with them is like talking to a fence post, they simply ignore logic and answer only the questions they choose to.

Obama care. The most obscene joke on America ever perpetrated, justified with one lie piled on another. The money spent on the website alone would have given every individual in the U.S. over a million dollars to buy any insurance plan they desired. Delivered with experts who know how to handle the industry. Heaven help us, how do we extricate ourselves from this evil empire? - Don Omey

ARE YOU GOD'S WIFE?

A four-year-old child, whose next door neighbor was an elderly gentleman, who had recently lost his wife.

Upon seeing the man cry, the little boy went into the old Gentleman's yard, climbed onto his lap, and just sat there.

When his mother asked him what he had said to the neighbor, the little boy just said, 'Nothing, I just Helped him cry.'

Teacher Debbie Moon's first graders were discussing a picture of a family. One little boy in the picture had a different hair color than the other members. One of her students suggested that he was adopted.

A little girl said, 'I know all about Adoption, I was adopted..'

'What does it mean to be adopted?', asked another child.

'It means', said the girl, 'that you grew in your mommy's heart instead of her tummy!'

On my way home one day, I stopped to watch a Little League baseball game that was being played in a park near my home.

As I sat down behind the bench on the first-base line, I asked one of the boys what the score was?

'We're behind 14 to nothing,' he answered with a smile.

'Really,' I said. 'I have to say you don't look very discouraged.'

'Discouraged?', the boy asked with a Puzzled look on his face... 'Why should we be discouraged? We haven't been up to bat yet.'

Whenever I'm disappointed with my spot in life, I stop and think about little Jamie Scott.

Jamie was trying out for a part in the school play. His mother told me that he'd set his heart on being in it, though she feared he would not be chosen..

On the day the parts were awarded, I went with her to collect him after school.

Jamie rushed up to her, eyes shining with pride and excitement.. 'Guess what, Mom,' he shouted, and then said those words that will remain a lesson to me... 'I've been chosen to clap and cheer.'

An eye witness account from New York City, on a cold day in December, some years ago: A little boy, about 10-years-old, was standing before a shoe store on the roadway, barefooted, peering through the window, and shivering with cold.

A lady approached the young boy and said, 'My, but you're in such deep thought staring in that window!'

'I was asking God to give me a pair of shoes,' was the boy's reply.

The lady took him by the hand, went into the store, and asked the clerk to get half a dozen pairs of socks for the boy.

She then asked if he could give her a basin of water and a towel. He quickly brought them to her.

She took the little fellow to the back part of the store and, removing her gloves, knelt down, washed his little feet, and dried them with the towel.

By this time, the clerk had returned with the socks.. Placing a pair upon the boy's feet, she purchased him a pair of shoes..

She tied up the remaining pairs of socks and gave them to him.. She patted him on the head and said, 'No doubt, you will be more comfortable now..'

As she turned to go, the astonished kid caught her by the hand, and looking up into her face, with tears in his eyes, asked her:

'Are you God's wife?'

THE BONE YARD

IF I WERE THE DEVIL

by Paul Harvey

This speech was broadcast by legendary ABC Radio commentator Paul Harvey on April 3, 1965:

If I were the Devil . . . I mean, if I were the Prince of Darkness, I would of course, want to engulf the whole earth in darkness.

I would have a third of its real estate and four-fifths of its population, but I would not be happy until I had seized the ripest apple on the tree, so I should set about however necessary to take over the United States.

I would begin with a campaign of whispers. With the wisdom of a serpent, I would whisper to you as I whispered to Eve: "Do as you please." "Do as you please."

To the young, I would whisper, "The Bible is a myth." I would convince them that man created God instead of the other way around. I would confide that what is bad is good, and what is good is "square".

In the ears of the young marrieds, I would whisper that work is debasing, that cocktail parties are good for you. I would caution them not to be extreme in religion, in patriotism, in moral conduct. And the old, I would teach to pray. I would teach them to say after me: "Our Father, which art in Washington" . . .

If I were the devil, I'd educate authors in how to make lurid literature exciting so that anything else would appear dull and uninteresting.

I'd threaten T.V. with dirtier movies and vice versa. And then, if I were the devil, I'd get organized.

I'd infiltrate unions and urge more loafing and less work, because idle hands usually work for me.

I'd peddle narcotics to whom I could. I'd sell alcohol to ladies and gentlemen of distinction. And I'd tranquilize the rest with pills.

If I were the devil, I would encourage schools to refine young intellects but neglect to discipline emotions . . . let those run wild.

I would designate an atheist to front for me before the highest courts in the land and I would get preachers to say "she's right."

With flattery and promises of power, I could get the courts to rule what I construe as against God and in favor of pornography, and thus, I would evict God from the courthouse, and then from the school house, and then from the houses of Congress and then, in His own churches I would substitute psychology for religion, and I would deify science because that way men would become smart enough to create super weapons but not wise enough to control them.

If I were Satan, I'd make the symbol of Easter an egg, and the symbol of Christmas, a bottle.

If I were the devil, I would take from those who have and I would give to those who wanted, until I had killed the incentive of the ambitious. And then, my police state would force everybody back to work.

Then, I could separate families, putting children in uniform, women in coal mines, and objectors in slave camps. In other words, if I were Satan, I'd just keep on doing what he's doing.

Paul Harvey, Good Day.

Editor's Comment: In other words, if I were Satan, I'd just keep on doing what Obama is doing.

Every time I come home, I'm reminded of our state's great entrepreneurial spirit.

Texas' grit and ingenuity are on display all the way from Beaumont to Midland, where our energy industry has boomed. Today, a new Great American Energy Renaissance with strong Texas roots is underway that I hope will sweep the nation.

On Wednesday, I held a press conference at the Spindletop Museum in Beaumont to discuss his plan to promote energy development and revive the economy. Here are some highlights:

Restoring jobs and economic growth is the number one priority for Americans and we have a clear path before us to do exactly that. A Great American Energy Renaissance is now underway that we should embrace.

This week brings us the fifth anniversary of President Obama's failed economic stimulus, which reminds us that jobs are not created by the federal government; they are created by innovative, hard-working American people.

This was true when Spindletop became a boomtown and it's true today. The only difference is an out-of-control federal government didn't stand in Spindletop's way.

It should be in the interest of every Republican, Democrat, Independent, and

AN ACTUAL CRAIG'S LIST PERSONALS AD

To the Guy Who Tried to Mug Me in Downtown Savannah night before last.

Date: 2013-11-27, 1:43 am .E.S.T.

I was the guy wearing the black Burberry jacket that you demanded that I hand over, shortly after you pulled the knife on me and my girlfriend, threatening our lives.

You also asked for my girlfriend's purse and earrings. I can only hope that you somehow come across this rather important message.

First, I'd like to apologize for your embarrassment; I didn't expect you to actually crap in your pants when I drew my pistol after you took my jacket.

The evening was not that cold, and I was wearing the jacket for a reason.. my girlfriend was happy that I just returned safely from my 2nd tour as a Combat Marine in Afghanistan.

She had just bought me that Kimber Custom Model 1911 .45 ACP pistol for my birthday, and we had picked up a shoulder holster for it that very evening.

Obviously you agree that it is a very intimidating weapon when pointed at your head ... isn't it?!

I know it probably wasn't fun walking back to wherever you'd come from with crap in your pants. I'm sure it was even worse walking bare-footed since I made you leave your shoes, cell phone, and wallet with me. (That prevented you from calling or running to your buddies to come help mug us again).

After I called your mother or "Momma" as you had her listed

Libertarian to support the new energy revolution.

"It's clear that President Obama's agenda is dragging our economy down. Obamacare is killing jobs, his energy regulations are killing jobs, and his ideas to mandate a higher minimum wage will kill even more jobs. We don't need more anti-growth ideas; what we need is a Great American Energy Renaissance to save us from the Obama economy.

I spoke with CNN about the recent vote to suspend the debt limit. Last week actually is a perfect illustration of everything that's wrong with Washington,

What I try to keep an eye on is the fact that I don't work for the party bosses in Washington, I work for the 26 million in Texas.

The people of Ukraine have boldly defended their rightful freedoms, and I called on Americans and the world to not lose sight of the increasingly dangerous situation.

The people of Ukraine need to know that the free world stands with them as they protest the actions of President Viktor Yanukovich designed to destroy their constitutional rights and drive their country into the sphere of influence of Vladimir Putin's resurgent Russia.

The world cannot afford to be distracted by the Olympic festivities in Sochi as just next door liberty-seeking Ukrainians are brutalized by their own government. A free and prosperous Ukraine is a natural partner for the United States and our European allies. We should be defending our interests in Ukraine both by quickly imposing economic in your cell, I explained the entire episode of what you'd done.

Then I went and filled up my gas tank as well as those of four other people in the gas station, -- on your credit card.

The guy with the big motor home took 153 gallons and was extremely grateful!

I gave your shoes to a homeless guy outside Vinnie Van Go Go's, along with all the cash in your wallet. [That made his day!]

I then threw your wallet into the big pink "pimp mobile" that was parked at the curb after I broke the windshield and side window and keyed the entire driver's side of the car.

Earlier, I managed to get in two threatening phone calls to the DA's office and one to the FBI, while mentioning President Obama as my possible target.

The FBI guy seemed really intense and we had a nice long chat (I guess while he traced your number etc.).

In a way, perhaps I should apologize for not killing you ... but I feel this type of retribution is a far more appropriate punishment for your threatened crime.

I wish you well as you try to sort through some of these rather immediate pressing issues, and can only hope that you have the opportunity to reflect upon, and perhaps reconsider, the career path you've chosen to pursue in life.

Remember, next time you might not be so lucky. Have a good day!

Thoughtfully yours, Semper fi, - Alex - sanctions against the government officials responsible for human rights abuses and by offering mutually-beneficial economic cooperation in the event that real democratic reforms are implemented.

The United States should fulfill its historic tradition of speaking out forcefully on behalf of those who cry out for freedom and against those who would silence them.

I discussed the new marriage bill, The State Marriage Defense Act, and coauthored with Sen. Mike Lee, R-Utah. A few of the memorable moments are below:

We have seen a steady assault on marriage... it's been an assault that has been led in significant part by the Obama Administration. President Obama is the most hostile to traditional marriage president the United States has ever seen. The Administration used its power to try to force gay marriage on all 50 states.

Recent court actions demonstrate judicial activism run amok. That has been the reason for the litigation assault.

The advocacy groups understood that they would be far more likely to convince the judges to set aside the laws of the States than it was to convince the American people. That's not how our democracy works.

I am encouraged by millions of men and women who are speaking out, and I think that's going to be the answer for turning the country around. The answer is not going to come from Washington; it's going to come from the American people.

Be sure to express your opinion to your congressman.

COMPUTERS NEEDED

For Suicide Prevention Program

In working with the suicide prevention program in Alamogordo and Mesalero it has come to the Spokemen's attention that, on more than one occasion, students have contemplated suicide as the only alternative to failing grades because their parents or gaurdians could simply not afford to get them the computer required for them to practice at home making it possible for them to make a passing grade. in classes requiring computers.

ANCIENT OF DAYS!

1. Sometimes I look at my watch 3 consecutive times and still not know what time it is.
 2. Nothing sucks more than the moment in an argument when you realize you're wrong.
 3. I am retrieving all those times I didn't want to nap when I was younger.
 4. There's great need for a sarcasm font.
 5. How the heck are you supposed to fold a fitted sheet?
 6. Was learning cursive really necessary?
 7. Map Quest or Google Maps really need to start their directions on # 5. I'm positive I know how to get out of my neighborhood; but then.....
 8. Obituaries would be a lot more interesting if they told you how the person died.
 9. I can't remember the last time I wasn't at least kind of tired.
 10. Bad decisions make great stories.
 11. You never know when it will strike, but there comes a moment when you know that you just aren't going to do anything productive for the rest of the day.
 12. Can we all just agree to ignore whatever comes after Blu-Ray? I don't want to have to restart my collection... again.
 13. I'm always slightly terrified when I exit out of Word and it asks me if I want to save any changes to my ten-page technical report that I swear I did not make any changes to.
 14. I keep some people's phone numbers in my phone just so I know not to answer when they call.
 15. I think the freezer deserves a light as well.
 16. I disagree with Kay Jewelers. I would bet on any given Friday or Saturday night more kisses begin with Miller Light than with Kay.
 17. I wish Google Maps had an "Avoid Ghetto" routing option.
 18. I have a hard time deciphering the fine line between boredom and hunger.
 19. How many times is it appropriate to say "What?" before you just nod and smile because you still didn't hear or understand a word they said?
 20. I love the sense of camaraderie when an entire line of cars team up to prevent a jerk from cutting in at the front. Stay strong, brothers and sisters! Stay Strong!
 21. Shirts get dirty. Underwear gets dirty. Pants? Pants never get dirty, and you can wear them forever.
 22. Even under ideal conditions people have trouble locating their car keys in a pocket, finding their cell phone, and Pinning the Tail on the Donkey - but after years of practice I can find and push the snooze button from 3 feet away, in about 1.7 seconds, eyes closed, first time, every time.
 23. The first testicular guard, the "Cup," was used in Hockey in 1874 and the first helmet was used in 1974. That means it only took 100 years for men to realize that their brain is also important.

New Mexico Chili Cook-off

Recently, I was honored to be selected as a judge at a chili cook-off. The original person called in sick at the last moment and I happened to be standing there at the judge's table, asking for directions to the Coors Light truck, when the call came in. I was assured by the other two judges (Native New Mexicans) that the chili wouldn't be all that spicy; and, besides, they told me I could have free beer during the tasting, so I accepted and became Judge #3.

Here are the scorecard notes from the event:

CHILI # 1 - MIKE'S MANIAC MONSTER CHILI

Judge # 1 -- A little too heavy on the tomato. Amusing kick.

Judge # 2-- Nice, smooth tomato flavor. Very mild.

Judge # 3 (Frank)-- Holy crap, what the heck is this stuff? You could remove dried paint from your driveway. Took me two beers to put the flames out. I hope that's the worst one. These New Mexicans are crazy.

CHILI # 2 - EL RANCHO'S AFTERTURNER CHILI

Judge # 1-- Smoky, with a hint of pork. Slight jalapeno tang.

Judge # 2-- Exciting BBQ flavor, needs more peppers to be taken seriously.

Judge # 3 -- Keep this out of the reach of children. I'm not sure what I'm supposed to taste besides pain. I had to wave off two people who wanted to give me the Heimlich maneuver. They had to rush in more beer when they saw the look on my face.

CHILI # 3 - ALFREDO'S FAMOUS BURN DOWN THE BARN CHILI

Judge # 1-- Excellent firehouse chili. Great kick.

Judge # 2 -- A bit salty, good use of peppers.

Judge # 3-- Call the EPA. I've located a uranium spill. My nose feels like I have been snorting Drano. Everyone knows the routine by now. Get me more beer before I ignite. Barmaid pounded me on the back, now my backbone is in the front part of my chest. I'm getting blank-faced from all of the beer.

CHILI # 4=2 0- BUBBA'S BLACK MAGIC Judge # 1 -- Black bean chili with almost no spice. Disappointing.

Judge # 2-- Hint of lime in the black beans. Good side dish for fish or other mild foods, not much of a chili.

Judge # 3-- I felt something scraping across my tongue, but was unable to taste it. Is it possible to burn out taste buds? Sally, the beer maid, was standing behind me with fresh refills. This 300 lb. Woman is starting to look HOT ... Just like this nuclear waste I'm eating! Is chili an aphrodisiac?

CHILI # 5 - LISA'S LEGAL LIP REMOVER

Judge # 1-- Meaty, strong chili. Jalapeno peppers freshly ground, adding considerable kick. Very impressive.

Judge # 2-- Chili using shredded beef, could use more tomato. Must admit the jalapeno peppers make a strong statement.

Judge # 3-- My ears are ringing, sweat is pouring off my forehead and I can no longer focus my eyes. I loudly broke wind, and four people behind me needed paramedics. The contestant seemed offended when I told her that her chili had given me brain damage. Sally saved my tongue from bleeding by pouring beer directly on it from the pitcher. I wonder if I'm burning my lips off.. It really ticks me off that the other judges asked me to stop screaming.

CHILI # 6 - VARGA'S VERY VEGETARIAN VARIETY

Judge # 1-- Thin yet bold vegetarian variety chili. Good balance of spices and peppers.

Judge # 2 -- Best yet. Aggressive use of peppers, onions, garlic. Superb.

Judge # 3-- My intestines are now a straight pipe filled with gaseous, sulfuric flames. I crapped on myself when I broke wind, and I'm worried it will eat through the chair. No one seems inclined to stand behind me except 300 lb. Sally. Can't feel my lips anymore. I desperately need to wipe my butt with a snow cone.

CHILI # 7 - SUSAN'S SCREAMING SENSATION CHILI

Judge # 1-- A mediocre chili with too much reliance on canned peppers.

Judge # 2-- Ho hum, tastes as if the chef literally threw in a can of chili peppers at the last moment. I should take note that I am worried about Judge #3. He appears to be in a bit of distress as he is crying uncontrollably.

Judge # 3-- You could put a grenade in my mouth, pull the pin, and I wouldn't feel a thing. I've lost sight in one eye, and the world sounds like it is made of rushing water. My shirt is covered with chili, which slid unnoticed out of my mouth. My pants are full of lava to match my shirt. At least during the autopsy, they'll know what killed me. I've decided to stop breathing. It's too painful. Forget it; I'm not getting any oxygen anyway. If I need air, I'll just suck it in through the 4-inch hole in my stomach.

CHILI # 8 - BIG TOM'S TOENAIL CURLING CHILI

Judge # 1-- The perfect ending, this is a nice blend chili. Not too bold but spicy enough to declare its existence.

Judge # 2 -- This final entry is a good, balanced chili. Neither mild nor hot. Sorry to see that most of it was lost when Judge #3 passed gass, passed out, fell over and pulled the chili pot down on top of himself. Not sure if he's going to make it. Poor fella, wonder how he'd have reacted to really hot chili?

Judge # 3 -- No report.

I was in a Starbucks Coffee recently when my stomach started rumbling. I suddenly realized that I desperately needed to relieve gas.

The place was packed, and the music was really loud so to get relief and reduce embarrassment I began to expell to the beat of the music.

After a couple of songs I started to feel much better. I finished my coffee and noticed that everyone was staring at me. I suddenly remembered that I was listening to my Ipod (with ear piece)

Q: Why was six scared of seven?

A: Because seven "ate" nine.

Three contractors are bidding to fix a broken fence at the White House. One is from Chicago, another is from Tennessee, and the third is from Minnesota. All three go with a White House official to examine the fence.

The Minnesota contractor takes out a tape measure and does some measuring, then works some figures with a pencil. "Well," he says, "I figure the job will run about $900. $400 for materials, $400 for my crew, and $100 profit for me."

The Tennessee contractor also does some measuring and figuring, then says, "I can do this job for $700. $300 for materials, $300 for my crew, and $100 profit for me."

The Chicago contractor doesn't measure or figure, but leans over to the White House official and whispers, "$2,700."

The official, incredulous, says, "You didn't even measure like the other guys! How did you come up with such a high figure?"

The Chicago contractor whispers back, "$1000 for me, $1000 for you, and we hire the guy from Tennessee to fix the fence."

"Done!" replies the government official. And that, my friends, is how the new stimulus plan will work.
